BRITISH PLAN STERNEST ORDER IN HOLY LAND

Bodies Of Hanged Sergeants Found 'Booby-Trapped'; New Violence Flares

JERUSALEM, July 31 — The bodies of two British sergeants killed in reprisal for execution of three Jewish extremists were found today — booby-trapped so that they were blown to bits when troops tried to cut them down.

Severe punitive measures, probably the strongest ever taken by the British in Palestine, will be ordered tonight by British high commissioner Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham.

The orders will empower military commanders to take any steps necessary to combat future terrorism, even to the extent of blowing up buildings and other properties.

GEN. CUNNINGHAM summoned Mrs. Golda Myerson, chief of the Jewish agency's political department, to demand full cooperation from the Jewish community "in every sense of the word" in combating terrorism.

Officiai representatives of Palestine Jewry issued a statement condemning "the dastardly murder of two innocent men."

At least one British officer was injured when the booby-trap bombs went off, uprooting trees in the grove where the men had been hung. Eyewitnesses said the corpses had been hanging side by side dressed in civilian clothes.

A notice, printed in English and Hebrew, was pinned to one of the bodies. It said:

"This is the sentence of Irgun's high tribunal."

21 WOMEN DEAD IN PARIS PRISON CONFLAGRATION

PARIS, July 31—Twenty-one bodies were removed today from the ruins of a Paris women's prison that was swept by a flash-fire. Firemen combed the wreckage in search of possible additional victims.

Five hundred women prisoners were locked in the four-story stone building last night when the fire broke out. The prison is in the Tourelles Military Cantonment, and until recently was an army barrack.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The state department is stepping up its news broadcasts to Russia there will be 30 minutes more a day to explain the Hughes investigation.

Translated into Russian the Hughes probe makes a kind of sense.

As I understand it, Howard Hughes is charged with introducing Elliot Roosevelt to a flying boat while 12 chorus girls from Mars entertained the Kaiser.

But I think Sen. Ferguson should have allowed Henry Kaiser to quote from Tennyson. It is well known that Tennyson is politically neutral.

On the broadcasts to Russia, I hear they're coming along better than expected. In the last survey the "Voice of America" finished just behind the Stalingrad plow works program.

The Hoopervitch survey reports "all those in Siberia with the telephones were contacted."

Republicans Launch Presidential Boom For Senator Robert Taft

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Ohio Republican leaders launched a presidential boom for Sen. Robert A. Taft today but the GOP congressional leader declared that he "wanted to be certain there is a good chance to win" before making up his mind.

Taft, in Columbus for an Ohio Republican rally, told newsmen that he was "complimented by yesterday's action" on the part of Sen. John W. Bricker, Ohio's other Republican senator.

Bricker, who was the vice-presidential candidate in 1944, took himself out of the '48 picture by making public his "unqualified" support of Taft for the nomination.

The Ohio Republican central and executive committees met at noon and formally adopted a resolution asking Taft to be a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination as Ohio "favorite son".

Taft immediately issued a statement of thanks and declared that "I am greatly complimented by the action of the Ohio state central and executive committee." He continued:

"I owe any political progress I have made to the hard work and assistance of the Republicans of Ohio and I cannot adequately express my gratitude to them."

Taft, in his formal statement, reiterated that he was planning a Canadian vacation and then a speaking trip to the Pacific coast.

"In the meantime," Taft's statement continued, "I shall try to sound out public sentiment throughout the country to determine whether there is a good probability of my nomination and election.

"I shall make a definite reply to the committee early in October."

TAFT TO BLAST TRUMAN POLICY

Ohio's Senior Senator Will Invade Foreign Field For First Time

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the helmsman of Republican thought on domestic issues, will plunge into the foreign relations field tonight for the first time with a blast at the Truman administration's occupation policy in Germany.

It was learned today that Ohio's senior Republican senator, in his address before a statewide rally of Ohio GOP leaders tonight in Columbus, will charge that the blundering policy of the occupation in Germany has wrecked the entire economic set-up of Europe.

The Taft invasion of the foreign relations field, which heretofore he has left in the hands of Sen. Arthur A. Vandenberg of Michigan, is bound to be taken as an indirect declaration of his intention to run for the presidency of the United States next year.

This belief will be strengthened by an inferential attack he will make on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the 1944 presidential nominee and currently the leading contender for the top spot on the 1948 ticket.

TWO MEN HURT IN CRASH AT COURT AND MAIN

Two men suffered minor cuts and bruises in a two-truck crash at 1:30 a. m. Thursday at Court and Main streets.

A police report said Millard Henry, 16, Wellston, was the driver of a truck proceeding north on Court street which was in collision with a tractor-truck driven east on Main street by Lloyd H. Ferguson, 35, Route 3, Circleville, for George Van Camp, Circleville contractor.

Those hurt were Mr. Ferguson, and Willard Henry, 23, Wellston, who was a passenger in the truck operated by Millard Henry. Police quoted each driver as claiming he had the "green" light at the intersection.

BRICKER WOULD ACCEPT DRAFT

Ohio Senator Thows Support Behind Taft Campaign For President

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Sen. John W. Bricker stepped from the 1948 presidential picture today—but left the door wide open behind him.

Bricker, the 1944 Republican vice-presidential candidate and three-time governor of Ohio, threw his "unqualified support" to the possible presidential aspirations of his senatorial partner, Robert A. Taft.

But the cagy Bricker left the way clear for a "draft Bricker" movement if the convention should develop a deadlock between Taft and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1944 presidential standard-bearer and Bricker's running mate at that time. He stated he could not reject a draft movement in these words:

"No man who loves his country and believes in representative government and the principles of his party could do that."

His silver mane noticeably thinner than when he went to the senate but still the glamor boy of Ohio politics, Bricker said he

DEWEY UNMOVED BY TAFT'S TRY FOR GOP POST

ENROUTE WITH GOV. DEWEY TO DETROIT, July 31—New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey turned homeward today from his 6,500-mile tour of the West.

Shortly before he did, the New York chief executive served sharp notice on Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, his chief rival for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, that he will speak out on national and international issues when the "proper" time arrives.

Dewey spent his final evening in the Middle West at Flint, Mich., at a testimonial dinner with Michigan Republican leaders.

During the affair, the New Yorker was asked to comment on:

1—A statement by his 1944 running mate, Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, that the latter was withdrawing from the GOP presidential race and would support Taft; and

2—A statement by Taft in Washington that the time had arrived for frank discussion, especially by Republicans, of domestic and international issues.

Concerning the Bricker move, the New York governor replied: "I'm surprised, aren't you?"

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS PLAN STATE MEETING SEPT. 21

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—State Democratic party chiefs today set Sept. 21 for a statewide meeting of county chairmen and state central committeemen.

Leaders of the state organization held a dinner meeting yesterday but withheld all discussion of possible candidates for state offices next year.

CHANDLER WILL FIGHT SENTENCE

Appeal Planned For Newsman Convicted As Traitor For Nazi Aid

BOSTON, July 31—Counsel for Douglas Chandler, 59, convicted traitor newsman and "Paul Revere" of Nazi radio broadcasters, began work today on appeals to the United States circuit court of appeals and, if necessary, to the supreme court to save him from a life sentence and a $10,000 fine.

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Francis J. W. Ford.

Chandler's attorneys announced insanity will be the basis of their appeal. They based his defense on the same grounds.

Before imposition of sentence, Chandler himself repudiated this defense. He told Judge Ford:

"I am, of course, not insane, but I was convinced I would not be rewarded as a prophet in my own country and permitted them (his defense counsel) to defend me on grounds chosen by them."

JUDGE FORD said he found Chandler a "fanatic" but sane. He said Chandler felt "if Germany won he would return to this country with great social progress, to take for the first time the place in quarters he felt in his mind he deserved."

Chandler was returned to East Cambridge jail pending decision by Washington officials on what federal prison he will be sent to.

BRITISH DEPTH CHARGE HARBOR AT LOS ANGELES

SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 31—Officers of the British cruiser H.M.S. Kenya revealed today they dropped a depth charge into mysterious bubbles alongside the ship in Los Angeles harbor.

The officers said they had received an anonymous telephone call warning of possible Jewish reprisals for British Palestine policy before the bubbles were seen.

Concussion from the charge, dropped late last night, was felt a half-mile away.

Two hundred persons, including high-ranking American Navy officials and Hollywood notables, were attending a reception aboard the ship at the time.

Lieut. John Stewart-Moore of the ship's officer list ordered the depth charge dropped. He said it was a "special-made one-and-one quarter pound demolition charge."

The anonymous telephone call was made to the British consulate late yesterday. Consulate officials said the voice warned that persons sympathetic to the Zionist movement intended to sabotage the ship in reprisal of British actions in Palestine.

U. S. Trying To Force Russia To Expose Plans

WASHINGTON, July 31—The United States today was embarked on a series of moves designed to make Moscow expose its intentions fully to the western world.

For this reason it was believed that United States deputy delegate to the United Nations, Herschel V. Johnson, will take an aggressive attitude when he returns to the security council for a showdown on the Balkan issue.

Johnson spent Wednesday in Washington conferring with officials of the state department who are specialists in the various fields involved in the Greek dispute. He returned to New York last night without having talked with Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

This fact alone left the impression that Johnson is not going to make any immediately sensational move. However, undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett indicated to a news conference that the state department has a series of maneuvers under consideration on the Greek question. He declined to say what they might be.

INTENSIFICATION of the United States attitude toward Russia was indicated also in a note challenging Moscow's right to remove so-called German and Italian assets from the satellite states of Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

The note, delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov by U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, refused to recognize such transfers in advance of the Russian ratification of the peace treaties with these countries.

It appeared obvious to observers that the move was designed to press Russia into ratification of the peace treaties.

Under these treaties Russia is obliged to move the bulk of her forces from the Balkans, where

COOL BREEZES SCHEDULED TO BLOW AWAY HEAT

Perspiring Circlevillians looked today for relief from the sweltering heat wave which has blanketed the state with the highest temperatures of the Summer.

The weatherman promised relief late today for this area from cool northerly winds. The high here yesterday was 90, with a low of 71. At 8 a. m. Thursday it was 77.

Forecasters predicted the mercury would hover between 80 and 88 degrees this afternoon with about the same range tomorrow. Sweltering conditions may resume Saturday, the weatherman said.

Northern Ohio was benefitting already from the northerly winds, and a little rain fell this morning in eastern Ohio, but no general rainfall was expected.

Toledo and Chesapeake, at the extreme northern and southern portions of the state reported 93 degrees Wednesday afternoon. Cleveland had 81 degrees and Columbus 90. Other temperatures: Akron 89-71, Cincinnatti 88-71, Cleveland 91-74, Dayton 87,71, Parkersburg, W. Va. 90-64, Wilmington 89-69, Zanesville 87-69.

KING GIVES CONSENT TO MARRIAGE OF PRINCESS

LONDON, July 31—King George VI formally consented today to the marriage of Princess Elizabeth, heiress-apparent to the British throne, and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, formerly prince of Greece.

In a 15-minute ceremony in a ground floor room of Buckingham palace, the king read to the privy council a document of consent.

Fourteen councillors were present. They included former prime minister Winston Churchhill, Premier Clement Attlee, the archbishop of Canterbury, and representatives of the dominions.

JAVANESE LEAVE SCORCHED EARTH TO DUTCH TROOPS

BATAVIA, July 31—An official communique announced today that Netherlands troops have reoccupied Malang, finding only flame-scorched ruins in what once was a beauty spot of eastern Java.

An Aneta news agency dispatch from the scene said that Malang is a "wilderness", practically devoid of life, with fires still burning in many sections.

Indonesian Republicans withdrawing before the tank-supported Netherlands troops blew up factories, motion picture houses and government buildings, while other structures were set on fire.

The Aneta correspondent said a pall of smoke hung over the city as the steel-helmeted Dutch troops, afoot and in American-built half-tracks, drove into Malang from the north, passing looted shops and piles of debris in the streets.

Other reports indicated that Republican resistance was stiffening and that the "scorched earth" operations were taking an increasingly heavy toll of property.

CHARGES 'SELLOUT'

NEW YORK, July 31—Former vice-president Henry Wallace, now editor of New Republic magazine, charged today that the 80th congress "was a sellout; the congress sold out the millions who cast votes to the few who put up the cash."

AAF EFFICIENCY GAINS NOTED

60 Percent Stepup Predicted By Thanksgiving As General Lists Plan

WASHINGTON, July 31—Lt. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg today set a 60-percent step-up in efficiency "by Thanksgiving" as the prime goal for the new, co-equal United States Air Forces.

The deputy commander of the nation's now-autonomous long-range air arm indicated that sweeping changes, particularly in administration, will develop as rapidly as extensive modifications in command structure can be effected.

It was understood that Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of the air forces, is still striving to meet a first-line strength of 55 bombardment and fighter groups, with 15 additional skeletonized groups also being maintained.

LAST YEAR'S budget cuts had forced a retrenchment from the original plan for 70-groups-of-the-line on active status.

Vandenberg indicated that the air forces would actively assume operational control over all existing air installations as soon as new defense secretary James V. Forrestal is sworn in by President Truman.

The bulk of the present bases are now under the broad general administrative control of the war department.

Yet to be ironed out, according to Vandenberg, are a wide variety of problems ranging from recruiting and budget planning to the more complex task of sorting out air and army industrial contracts.

SOVIETS BLAMES SMITH DISCIPLES FOR WALL SIGNS

WASHINGTON, July 31—Walls of the Soviet embassy in Washington today were plastered with signs reading "beware of spies working," "murder inc.," and "owners moving soon."

Michael S. Vavilov, first secretary of the embassy, personally removed a number of the placards. He told reporters:

"This is the work of the followers of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith. They are trying to 'improve' Soviet-American relations."

Vavilov instructed the newsmen to "be sure and put that word 'improve' in quotes."

Smith is in Washington for a mass meeting to be held in the Sylvan theater by members of his "christian front" faction.

Don Lohbeck of St. Louis, who said he represented the national christian youth of America, admitted he had tacked up some of the signs.

LOVETT TELLS PROBERS FLYING BOATS REJECTED

Kaiser And Hughes Later Won Contract To Build Three Cargo Ships

WASHINGTON, July 31—Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., said today that he "expects" both Howard Hughes and Johnny Meyer, Hughes' party-throwing publicity man, to testify before the senate war investigating committee tomorrow morning.

Ferguson, chairman of the subcommittee probing the huge Kaiser-Hughes flying boat contract, admitted that he had received no word from Hughes, however.

Ferguson's statement came after undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett testified that the joint chiefs of staff rejected the flying boat plan in 1942 when they were seeking planes for the North African invasion.

LOVETT, ex-assistant secretary of war for air, told the senate war investigating committee that later, after Henry Kaiser and Howard Hughes won a contract for three flying boats he "protested" the "pirating" of aircraft workers by Kaiser and Hughes.

H. Robert Edwards, a government engineer who spent four years at the Hughes flying boat plant, told of troubled conditions at the factory and said he saw Hughes only once during all that time.

Edwards related "squabbles" between the engineering and manufacturing departments. He testified:

"Nobody was in charge. The chief engineer wouldn't take orders from the manager (Edward Bern) and the manager was trying to get Hughes to crack down."

BERN TESTIFIED yesterday that the plant situation was "chaotic" and that the plant was a haven for Hollywood draft dodgers.

MANY VEHICLES FAULTY, POLICE FIND IN CHECKUP

Circleville's part in the July annual state-wide traffic safety campaign ended Thursday noon and Police Chief William McCrady reported that since Sunday morning 313 cars were inspected and that 116—or 37 per cent—had defects deemed dangerous.

The police chief asserted that the defects included 32 brakes, two horns, three windshield wipers, seven head lights, 11 tail lights, and 61 stop lights.

Last week's police checkup disclosed defects in 80 autos or 28 per cent of the total of 280 cars examined. The defects in those 80 cars, Chief McCrady said, included 11 brakes, 47 stop lights, 17 tail lights, eight head lights, four windshield wipers, and one horn.

Owners of the cars in which the defects were dicovered, the police chief said, were ordered to have the hecessary repairs and adjustments made immediately.

The state-wide campaign, which began July 1, with police and state highway patrolmen participating, was to reduce traffic accidents.

OSLO SCENE OF U. S. PLANE CRASH; DIPLOMAT SAFE

COPENHAGEN, July 31—An American military plane carrying U. S. Ambassador Josiah Marvel, Jr., and four other persons overturned today in landing at Fornebu Field near Oslo, Norway.

There were no serious injuries but all aboard were shaken up.

Attaches at the American embassy in Oslo telephoned Copenhagen with news of the incident, saying the plane overshot the landing field and overturned.

ority for the government on the 18 million dollar job.

Lovett said that the Army finally agreed, at Nelson's request, to provide engines and instruments for three "experimental" wooden flying boats to be built by Kaiser and Hughes — with the understanding that there would be no "pirating" of workers from other aircraft manufacturers.

* * *

SEN. FERGUSON (R) Mich., chairman of the subcommittee handling the hearings, asked:

"Did you find pirating of labor later on?"

"Yes," Lovett replied. "Within a few months we received a complaint from one of our principal contractors — I believe it was a subsidiary of Boeing at Wichita, Kans.—saying that there had been hiring squads trying to pick up labor at his gates, from Kaiser-Hughes."

Lovett added:

"I wrote to Mr. Nelson and protested, because at that time we were trying to get out planes for the North African enterprise."

THE WITNESS said emphatically that the Army plane program "did not include the Kaiser project."

Kaiser, he said, told him about the proposed HK-1 flying boat to be built of plywood but had "no performance date or specifications—only a rough sketch or artist's drawing."

Lovett's testimony was given as the committee awaited some definite word on whether Hughes, millionaire aircraft designer and movie producer, would be on hand to tell his story by tomorrow morning — the deadline set by the committee.

Hughes' appearance promised a sensational showdown on his charge that Sen. Brewster (R) Maine, chairman of the full committee, offered to call off the inquiry if Hughes would merge his two airlines with Pan-American airways.

The joint chiefs of staff rejection of the Kaiser-Hughes project was contained in a memo to Nelson written by then undersecretary of war Robert P. Patterson on July 30, 1942.

Patterson said the joint chiefs reported that "since the maximum production of combat planes is necessary for the war effort, none of the existing facilities should be diverted to the construction of cargo planes."

WOMAN FINED $125 ON TWO CHARGES BY MAYOR

Two fines totaling $125 and costs were imposed on Miss Julia Moss, 23, West Ohio street, Wednesday afternoon by Ben H. Gordon, and she was committed to the Pickaway county jail.

Miss Moss smashed the glass from jail windows following her arrest by police at 2:15 a. m. Wednesday on South Court street. Mayor Gordon fined her $100 and costs for driving an auto when intoxicated, and $25 and costs for failure to possess a driver's license.

Cecil Knece, 26, Circleville, arrested with Miss Moss and charged with permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his auto, was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Gordon. Mr. Knece was also committed to the county jail but he subsequently paid the fine and was released.

U. S. Trying To Force Russia To Expose Plans

they now constitute a major force in compeling compliance with Moscow demands, within a given period after the treaties come into force.

THEY BECOME effective after the United States, Britain, France, Russia and the conquered state have ratified them. Thus far the three western powers already have deposited their instruments of ratification. Reports from Europe have indicated that Moscow will not ratify until the conquered state has done so first.

As a result of developments within the last few days, observers are convinced that United States policy, for the time being, will concentrate on forcing the Russians to agree to some form of peace treaty with Germany and Austria when the "Big Four" foreign ministers meet again in London in November.

PARTITION SUIT FILED IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Mrs. Ruth Brooks Deneau, Camden, N. J., who claims a two-thirds interest in a 122-acre Perry township farm listed in the will of her grandfather, Jefferson Brooks who died 47 years ago, filed suit Wednesday in Pickaway county common pleas court asking that the property be partitioned and that she be given an accounting of rentals and profits.

Defendants named in Mrs. Deneau's petition are: Homer E. Woods, and his sons, Robert I. Woods, Donald G. Woods and William Woods, all of Columbus. Mrs. Deneau, who recites that Jefferson Brooks died July 12, 1900 and that her father, John Brooks, died intestate May 20, 1920 leaving her as his sole heir, contends that her grandfather bequeathed a life estate in the farm and that upon the death of her father she became the owner of an undivided two-thirds interest in the property. She alleges that Homer E. Woods has been receiving all rents and profits from the farm and that she is entitled to an accounting.

DRIVER GETS HEAVY FINE AFTER TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Ernest N. Taylor, 37, Ashville, was fined $300 and costs in the court of Mayor H. H. Brown, Wednesday at Chillicothe, on a charge of driving an atuo when intoxicated. Mayor Brown suspended $200 of the fine.

State highway patrolmen had arrested Taylor after his northbound car was in collision Tuesday night with the auto of Charles W. Bethel, 60, Route 1, Chillicothe. Patrolmen said the mishap occurred one and one-half miles south of Chillicothe, that damage to the Bethel car was estimated at $180 and that the after zig-zagging on the road for one-fifth of a mile the Taylor machined turned over. Taylor was given first aid in the Chillicothe hospital for a left elbow laceration.

TRUMAN PLOWS THROUGH BILLS LEFT BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, July 31—President Truman drove steadily ahead today through the mass of legislation awaiting his attention following congress' adjournment.

The chief executive, who signed 12 bills this morning, is expected to complete work by the middle of next week on the measures passed along to him by Congress.

Mr. Truman disposed of 59 bills yesterday.

MAN DIES IN BLAZE

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Charles Ervin Williams, 33, Taylor Station near Columbus, was burned to death early today, apparently while smoking a cigaret in bed. Franklin county sheriff's deputies said Williams' wife and six children were away from home visiting relatives.

MARKET SLUMPS

LONDON, July 31—London's stock market slumped again today, some government stocks suffering heavily.

BRITISH PLAN STERNEST ORDER IN HOLY LAND

throughout the wooded grove in which the bodies were found exploded. The bodies had been discovered only a short time before.

One eye-witness said that pieces of flesh were thrown as much as 50 yards from the spot where remains of the hapless soldier-hostages were discovered in a government-owned forest three miles south of Nathanya.

Several Jewish settlement police were said to have made the initial discovery of the bodies, thus clearing up the mystery of their whereabouts since Irgun Zvai Leumi announced the hangings yesterday. Irgun is an underground Jewish faction.

The sergeants were abducted 20 days ago when leaving a Nathanya cafe.

DISCOVERY of the bodies came as British troops swarmed through the area in one of Palestine's largest manhunts.

Haganah, underground army of the Jewish agency, joined the hunt. Following Jewish agency denunciation of the reprisals — opening what Irgun Zvai Leumi warned would be a British blood bath for the execution of three of their colleagues — the Haganah members staged a mass comb-out of their own in the Nathanya district.

Irgun, of which the three executed extremists were members, continued meanwhile to publicize its action in hanging the sergeants. It posted placards announcing the reprisal.

MEANWHILE, fresh violence in Palestine resulted in the deaths of two British soldiers and injuries to three others. The casualties occurred when a land mine exploded beneath a military vehicle on the road near Hadera.

(A London Daily Graphic dispatch said that about 50 troops demonstrated near Hadera after this incident, firing shots and smashing furniture in a cafe.)

RURAL BLOCS PLAN MOVES TO BLOCK 'BIG CITY' PLANS

GREENVILLE, O., July 31—Formation of a rural bloc of western counties to combat the drive undertaken by Ohio's bigger cities for greater voice in the Ohio legislature was practically assured today.

Representatives of rural counties met in Greenville last night to hear State Rep. Guy D. Hawley (R-Darke) explain the so-called "Darke county plan" to organize the smaller counties to maintain the present legislative status quo, which favors the rural areas in the house of representatives.

had urged Taft to be a candidate as early as last year.

At that time, Bricker stated, Taft told him that he might "have something to say" after the congressional session, but later decided to withhold any decision until he completed a western trip in September of October.

Bricker made his announcement of Taft support at a news conference which preceded today's statewide gathering of Republican big-wigs. He predicted that the state central and executive committee and the Ohio GOP congressional delegation would endorse Taft unanimously at the harmony gathering.

RICHARDS COPS 7 TO 0 VICTORY AT PORTSMOUTH

McKinney Bests Easter In District Tournament; Carl Guick Stars

Todd McKinney pitched a one-hitter and Carl Gulick did some fancy hitting as Richards Implement team won in the district softball tournament at Portsmouth Wednesday night.

Carl Gulick hit a homer, triple and double in three times up as Richards won 7-0 from Yellowbud MWA. The winners got seven hits off their teammate, Guy Easter, who is pitching for Yellowbud in the tournament.

Jim Davis spoiled McKinney's bid for a no-hitter with a blooper back of third. McKinney struck out 14.

Richards scored first in the opening inning when they got one run, added two in the second, one in the third and finished with three in the fifth.

Richards return to Portsmouth Friday night to play Wallett Motors, Chillicothe at 9 o'clock. Blue Ribbon also plays Friday night meeting Chillicothe Gold Cross Shoes at 7.

FINED MANAGER

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—American Association president Frank C. Land fined Manager Herman Franks of St. Paul $25 today for delaying a game with Louisville at St. Paul on July 25.

Lane explained that the penalty was "for delaying the ball game and needless bickering with umpire James Clagg." Clagg ousted Franks from the ball park.

Dodgers Win Thriller; Giants Top Blackwell

NEW YORK, July 31—A shocked and groggy St. Louis Cardinal team hummed the "Blues" today while Brooklyn whistled a split-tooth rendition of "Praise the Lord, We were almost decommissioned" following last night's almost incredible 11-to-10 Dodger conquest.

The swashbuckling National League front-runners pounced on the injured Harry Brecheen and his comrades for a 10 to 0 lead in the first five and a half innings to seem assured of their 12th straight victory and a nine-game lead in the senior loop.

The resurgent Cards stormed back with four runs in the sixth and smashed across six more in the ninth after two were out, to tie up the ball game.

Brooklyn then demonstrated its tenacious quality by clipping the sixth St. Louis pitcher, Jim Hearn, for the winning run. Gene Hermanski doubled, and with two out, the Louisville Colonel, Pee Wee Reese took charge and rifled a single to center.

EWELL BLACKWELL, 1947's mound sensation, suffered a rude jolt in his quest for establishment of a major league record for consecutive pitching triumphs. The gaunt Cincinnati ace with the fluid cross-fire motion went ten dramatic innings before a chance at baseball immortality was denied him.

Blackwell, with 16 straight victories, was after Rube Marquard's 1912 standard of 19 successive wins and Carl Hubbell's unaccepted mark of 24 straight victories over two seasons, 1937 and '38.

The home-run hammering New York Giants blasted Blackwell's dreams by tying up the game on a ninth inning circuit clout by Willard Marshall and winning in the tenth, 5 to 4.

Another sustained accomplishment went by the boards in the Pirate-Brave doubleheader. In the first game, which swaggering Kirby Higbe won for the Bucs, 5 to 3, Frankie Gustine was held hitless after having hit safely in 21 consecutive games.

THE BRAVE home run power exerted itself in the nightcap, with four Braves batters (Tommy Holmes, Connie Ryan, Danny Litwhiler, and Mike McCormick) hitting for the circuit in the 8-to-5 brave triumph. Bob Carpenter failed dismally in his comeback attempt with the Chicago Cubs, the veteran right hander being shelled in the 9-to-2 Philly victory.

In the American League, the second place Red Sox stumbled again, falling 11-½ games off the torrid Yankee pace by losing to the Cleveland Indians, 13 to 7. The Yankees walloped the Detroit Tigers, 8-5.

The Philadelphia Athletics lost their 20th one-run game by submitting, 3 to 2, to southpaw Frank Papish's steady five-hit hurling. Rudy York slammed his 11th home run with one on in the first to give the Chisox an early 2-to-0 edge.

The baseball gods frowned again on Washington pitcher Walter Masterson. The plucky hurler lost a tough 2-to-1 eleven-inning game to Jack Kramer and the St. Louis Browns on Eddie Yost's error on Vernon Stephen's grounder.

RANGERS DEFEAT GAS HOUSERS FOR LEAGUE TITLE

Completing their season with a 12-3 win over the Gashouse Gang, the Park Rangers were declared champions of the Ted Lewis Junior Softball League. The winners suffered but one defeat throughout the season.

Thursday night as a preliminary game in the night league circuit the Park Rangers will meet the league all-stars in what promises to be an interesting battle. Scheduled to pitch for the Rangers is Roger "No-Hit" Bennington while Ted Davis, Curt Bradley, and Ted Morgan will hurl for the All-Stars.

Members of the All-Star team include: Jerry Rooney, Dick Maiden, Milt Spangler, Mike Rooney, Elwood Stewart, Bill Beck, Jim George, Dave Coffland, Walt Heine, and Ronnie Seall.

The Park Rangers landed catcher Jerry Pritchard, pitcher Roger Bennington, infielder Ronnie Bennington, and outfielder Merda Marshall.

BIG CROWD SEES GIRLS TEAMS

Columbus Farm Bureau Wins From Deeds Dairy Under Park Lights

Columbus Farm Bureau, with Lucille Redman, Circleville girl, contributing some good hitting and fielding, defeated Lancaster Deeds Dairy team 12-8 in a girls softball game in Ted Lewis park Wednesday night before a large crowd.

The teams were not up to the standard of other girls teams which have played here but fans were pleased with the contest.

Pitcher Shull of the Deeds team did a good hurling job but her support was poor. She allowed seven hits, some of the questionable variety, but her teammates made nine errors. She and her teammates got 14 hits off J. Perry but they could get only eight runs.

THURSDAY NIGHT at 7 the Park Rangers, champions of the Summer recreation program in Ted Lewis park, will meet an all star team from the playground under the night league field lights. Following this game Blue Ribbon and Container Corporation play a tournament game.

Friday night Mumaw's Market and VFW clash in a tournament game.

COBB TO TRY

NEW YORK, July 31—John Cobb, English auto driver and holder of the world's speed record of 369.7 miles per hour set in 1939, announced today he will leave for Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, next week for a new attack on his mark.

RED BIRDS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT OVER BREWERS

American association is three top teams nursed bruises inflicted last night by lesser lights.

Kansas City's league leading Blues were in the worst shape, taking a double thumping from last place Toledo, 13 to 6 and 6 to 4. The twin triumph enabled the Mud Hens to climb into a seventh-place tie with Minneapolis.

Cuddles Marshall and Tommy Byrne, usually among manager Bill Meyer's more reliable hurlers, were the victims of a 14-hit Toledo attack in the seven inning first game, the hens getting nine runs in the sixth. Whitey Platt had a homerun for the hens.

Second place Louisville fell short in a late-inning rally, losing to Minneepolis, 5 to 4. Indianapolis defeated St. Paul by the same score.

The Columbus Red Birds made it three straight wins over third place Milwaukee, 6 to 3, behind Les Studener's eight-hit hurling. Barney Olsen homered for the Birds while Tom Neill hit one for the Brewers off Studener.

AIR POWER IS PEACE POWER!

HELP BUILD AMERICA'S AIR POWER ON AIR FORCE DAY, AUGUST 1st

No one today questions the fact that the whole future of the United States may rest in the very clouds over your head. The security of this country demands strong, well-trained, well-equipped Air Forces, superior to any in the world.

And the new, reorganized Air Forces give thousands of eligible young men an opportunity to take an active part in building America's Air Power . . . on the ground as well as in the sky.

You may, for example, enlist in the Air Forces for three years. If you have a specialty which will qualify you, you may also be able to enlist in a grade at higher pay.

If you have had Air Forces experience, you may join the Air Reserve and continue your military aviation training outside of business hours.

Or you may join the Air National Guard and perhaps become eligible for advanced technical training at special Air National Guard schools.

Think it over. If there are Air Force Day exhibits in your locality, be sure to visit them on August 1st. If no demonstrations are to be held nearby, get a copy of the new Air Forces pamphlet, "Know Your Air Forces," at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

NOW — THE WORLD'S GREATEST OPPORTUNITY FOR A CAREER IN AVIATION

Today the Army Air Forces offer high school graduates an unprecedented opportunity to get the finest aviation schooling on earth — and select your school or course before you enlist.

The AAF Career Plan is unlike anything ever offered before. It permits selected high school graduates to apply and qualify for AAF specialized courses of their own choice. Simply go to your U. S. Army Recruiting Station, explain the kind of aviation training you want and you will receive an application blank and a complete list of available courses.

When you are selected to attend the course of your choice, you enlist in the Army Air Forces for 3, 4 or 5 years. After your basic training period you are guaranteed the education you have selected to make you a specialist in the type of work you have chosen.

Get a list of all the schools and courses open to you under the AAF Aviation Career Plan at your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

JOAN CRAWFORD SHIVERS WHILE 'BURNING UP'

Pretending To Be Cold As Hollywood Sun Soars Tests Actress

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 — Joan Crawford sat shivering in front of a roaring fire.

The temperature outside was above 90 but the script for "Daisy Kenyon" said it was 55 and Miss Crawford is an actress who believes the script.

She pulled her $1200 beaver coat tighter about her 115 pounds and went into a long scene with Dana Andrews and Henry Fonda who, the cads they are, were in their shirt sleeves enjoying it all. Midway the perspiration stood out on her forehead and Otto Preminger, the producer-director, complained.

"Do you have to perspire like that?" he said accusingly. "You're a great actress. Try to control yourself."

THE MAKEUP man put an extra gob on her face, designed to keep the perspiration from showing, and the prop man got the blaze roaring better than before. It was a lovely fireside scene in a pretty little cottage.

After it was finished, Miss Crawford said she felt as though she had just escaped from Dante's inferno.

She said:

"I've been working in this picture five weeks and I've dropped a pound a week. Why do the studios always film Winter scenes in the Summer?"

The worst, she said, was when Preminger dragged her out into a sun that sent the temperature up to 98, put her in galoshes, a fur coat and a fur hat, and told her to pretend she was having a rough Winter in New England.

"It was a rough Winter," she said, "in Hollywood."

HOLLYWOOD'S most interesting brother and sister act this season is the Cagneys — Jimmy and Jeanne.

Having spent the last seven years in New York gaining valuable theatrical experience, Jeanne is now back in town playing the leading feminine role in "The Time of Your Life," which stars brother Jim and is being produced by her other brother, Bill.

It's definitely not the usual case of Hollywood nepotism, though. Bill and Jimmy had to do a lot of fast talking to get their kid sister into the picture. Jeanne wasn't sure she was ready yet to step into such an important role.

YOUTH AT THE WHEEL

AN INTERVIEW with insurance and safety officials in one of our large cities uncovers the fact that there is one fatal accident for each two million miles driven by the 16-year-old driver group. For the ages of 20 to 25, the average is one in eight million, while the more cautious 45 to 50 group has one fatality to every 21 million miles driven.

"Junior drivers are poison." This is what insurance men say of the youngsters who take off in Father's car nearly every evening, scattering destruction in their wake.

We have taught children to drive, or they have learned by watching, and they seem to have an instinctive grasp of the mechanics of the operation. But there is much more than mechanics involved in driving a car. Courtesy, consideration, common sense and good judgment are even more important than driving ability as such. In driving, as in other fields, it is character that counts. No one should be allowed to control so huge a potential of destruction as an automobile until he can prove maturity of judgment and self-control.

THE TWO REAL PARTIES

NAME THE two chief political parties. Democrats and Republicans? Not so, Pearl Buck, the novelist, told the General Federation of Women's Clubs the other day. These, she says, are just names. The real line is between the world-minded and the individual-minded, those who think that the United States should actively try to pull the world out of its desperate situation, and those who would wash their hands of it all.

Logically the major parties should divide along these lines, with one group in one party and the other in the opposition. Actually American parties are not built that way. Both parties have interventionists and isolationists, high-tariff advocates and low-tariff advocates, Congressmen who legislate for the employer and Congressmen who try to help labor. It is not logically defensible, but it has always been so; and, it may be suspected, will always be.

LEAKY ROOFS

THE GREEKS obviously need relief, but there are statesmen at Washington in a similar situation. The latter relief naturally centers around politics, but is also directly concerned with a leaky roof. Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, dean of Ohio representatives in Congress, insists that tax relief means more than mere Greek relief to a home owner whose roof leaks. And that might have many applications, at home and abroad.

There is no end to life's perils. A midwestern vacationist, swimming peacefully in a lake, had his leg broken by a hitskip motorboat.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 31 — The Republicans did rather well. Their first half-a-chance at national leadership in 15 years developed finally, of course, into what has been called "government by a two-thirds majority."

Democratic presidential opposition forced them to acquire two-thirds of congress to do anything important about the major problems such as unions and taxes. But when you add up the complete score of the first session of their 80th congress, you will find the early Spring dissatisfaction with their delays proved to be unjustified and they finished with genuine accomplishments.

Their greatest overall accomplishment—and I think this is truly unprecedented in modern American government in their circumstances—was that they did not give enough ground to nullify themselves. They stood rather firm for what they believed, in the face of all the propaganda gales which blew. They did not trim their sails down to the point of nullification of their proposed course, which has been the great defect of good government, common to our times.

To put it in examples, they did just about what they said they would do before election on the union reform bill. They took a lot of time to do it, but when they were finished they were able to make their new law reach the statute books over a presidential veto. On taxes, they fell short of acquiring a two-thirds majority to do the same thing, but by only a few votes.

Their outstanding men-of-the-session in this respect was Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts. Quietly and without publicity, he guided the house carefully and reasonably to the charted Republican course. And in the end he wound up as the man designated by the new law of this congress to succeed the President if anything should happen. The law was strongly approved by both Republicans and Democrats alike, who have appreciation of Martin's strong sense of fairness and justice. If I were running a national magazine which looked anywhere near the genuine basis of things, Martin would be my man-of-the-year.

The Republicans were quite smart politically. They have Mr. Truman in the position of defeating tax reduction, and if that increases his popularity with taxpayers, then anything can. Particularly smart was the way they caught Mr. Truman running off with the foreign policy and European relief. I assume from the developments they suspected he would pull what might be called a Roosevelt on them, and present them with a Democratic fait accompli. Detecting this, they designated a series of committees to look into every angle of the foreign situation, relief, trade, finance and all the other angles during the congressional recess. If Mr. Truman is influenced into anything extraordinary during the absence of congress, it will be because all these committee fell asleep. It looks to me as if the Republicans are working gradually away from the old fetishes of this nation toward Europe and the world, and toward something which will be in accordance with the facts. They are not trying to revise the facts to fit a purpose.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of bright sunshine. Soon outside and much pleased by the sight of fields cleared of wheat and the upsurge of corn. Looks as though the coarse grain, in my neighborhood at least, will beat the frost. Everyone and everything seems to have forgotten the long floods. Even the chickens have calmed their fears and have come down a peg or two from the highest perches. Finally turned inside for coffee and then downtown.

Charlie Carter, the local weatherman, is losing that worried look and regaining friends who had started blaming him for the record run of rainy weather. Chatted with him briefly and found him practically his old self. Learned from Bob Colville that tentative plans are complete for the Pumpkin Show and from all indications the event will be "bigger and better" this year.

There goes Ray Rader, who is in charge of building at the new fairgrounds. Progress there far surpasses the expectations of even the most optimistic. That big plat begins to look like what it is supposed to be. Basketball there this Winter unless the unexpected happens.

Met Dud Carpenter and sought his version of a fishing trip to Canada with Earl Smith, but he refused to talk except on the advice of counsel. And Earl Smith is his counsel. Luck must have been bad. First time I have experienced a fisherman requiring legal support for his fish lies. Seems a grave error to me. Fish now made a matter of legal record have absolutely no chance to grow through the years.

Saw Dr. Courtright sitting mighty proud in his new Olds. Well, a new-car owner has a right to be proud in these post-war days we anticipated so much and expected to yield so much. Had coffee with Bill Defenbaugh and learned that he has given up his annual Fall tour of the West and will go to Florida this Winter instead. Going in a new car, too — he hopes. Think he will wish he had gone West instead of South. But maybe not; he's contrary at times.

There goes Herschel Hill who is assembling tackle against a fishing trip to Brevort Lake. And Bill Kochheiser, who has his eyes on Manitoulin. Vaden Couch, too, who is doing some wishful thinking. Jim Stout and Bob and Luther Bower with their wives leave soon for Goulais bay. Bob and Luther participated in the CORL rifle match here Sunday, but they were not listed in the published list of shooters, and since Sunday have been trying to explain to their wives why they were away from home for the entire day. Well, ladies, after what they said to me about omission of their names it is okeh if you teach them to bark.

In the afternoon did greet some businessmen who are turning wishful eyes on the ville, and a group of newspapermen from Zanesville, here to inspect new machinery in this printery. Your paper is so well in step with the times that hardly a week passes without visits from publishing organizations, some from far points. Might interest you to drop in and see automatic typesetting among other things. Since it is your paper, you are always welcome.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SETTING UP THE DUMMY

ORDINARILY the declarer in a suit contract plots his course on a basis of winding up with his own hand taking the last few tricks which bring him into port safely. There are plenty of interesting situations, however, that favor setting up of the dummy. This is usually when the dummy is nearer to set-up than the declarer's hand. In such cases, the dummy is treated as the master hand, especially when the declarer's reading of the defenders' cards indicates that such a method is feasible.

South was more than willing to let the bidding end at just 2-Spades until West reopened the bidding and North then showed enough stuff to go voluntarily to 3-Spades. Then all at once South decided to reach out and try for game. He was glad he did.

To impede what sounded like an extra good trump situation, with cross-ruffing likely, West laid down his spade A and K. Then he switched to his club Q. That gave South a chance to do some good card reading. He saw that, if he took that in the dummy and led toward his A, he would be able to ruff only one club in the dummy. He would be beaten surely, as he could not avoid a heart loser except by a discard on diamonds, in which the finesse probably would lose. So he looked for other measures.

West had shown so many cards in hearts and clubs that East surely had the diamonds bunched, including probably both the Q and 10. In that case, he had an almost sure way to set up the suit, by preserving all entries to the dummy.

So he took the third trick with his club A, scored the diamond A and K, led the 7, which East covered with the 10 and South ruffed, went to dummy with the club 10 to the K, which East ruffed with the spade Q. East returned the heart J to the A and the diamond 9 was brought from the dummy. East covered with the Q and South ruffed again. Now a club ruffed by the spade J put him in dummy to run the rest of the diamonds, discarding all of his own losers. The final trick then was the heart 2 ruffed by the spade 9. It was neat dummy reversal play.

For Thursday, July 31

AN uncertain, perplexing and complicated set of circumstances threatens the easy going of ambitious projects already launched on promising premises. False moves, unprincipled tactics, even stupid or ill-considered ways and means, might upset the encouraging buildup for popularity, good position or relations with higher-ups or influential persons. Business, finance, social and affectional aspirations may be jeopardized by wrong or fumbling gestures. Keep alert and straightforward.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find the final culmination of their affairs depends upon the shrewd, sagacious, and high-principled manipulation of matters already well under way, holding prospects of progress and fulfilled ambitions of consequence.

It is possible that a want of clarity, keen grasp on uncertain developments, with confused or indecisive conduct, may endanger flourishing conditions. Especially should resort to expediency rather than principle be avoided. Funds, assets, personal popularity and prestige are at stake, dependent on clean cut and honest effort.

A child born on this day has splendid prospects for success, with enhanced popularity and progress, but a slant toward the irregular or shiftless might prove its undoing. Principle, not expediency, should be inculcated.

CHAPTER THIRTY

HERCULE POIROT'S interest in Henrietta Savernake grew stronger. He said:

"You had been in love with Dr. Christow—for how long?"

"About six months."

"The police will have, I gather, no difficulty in discovering the fact?"

Henrietta considered.

"I imagine not. That is, if they are looking for something of that kind."

"Oh, they will be looking, I can assure you of that."

"Yes, I rather thought they would." She paused, stretched out her fingers on her knee and looked at them, then gave him a swift friendly glance. "Well, M. Poirot, what does one do? Go to Inspector Grange and say—what does one say to a mustache like that? It's such a domestic family mustache."

Poirot's hand crawled toward his own proudly borne adornment.

"Whereas mine, Mademoiselle?"

"Your mustache, M. Poirot, is an artistic triumph. It has no associations with anything but itself. It is, I am sure, unique."

"Absolutely."

"And it is probably the reason why I am talking to you as I am. Granted that the police have to know the truth about John and myself, will it necessarily have to be made public?"

"That depends," said Poirot. "If the police think it has no bearing on the case, they will be quite discreet. You—are very anxious on this point?"

Henrietta nodded. She stared down at her fingers for a moment or two, then suddenly lifted her head and spoke. Her voice was no longer dry and light.

"Why should things be made worse than they are for poor Gerda? She adored John and he's dead. She's lost him. Why should she have to bear an added burden?"

"It is for her that you mind?"

"Do you think that is hypocritical? I suppose you're thinking that if I cared at all about Gerda's peace of mind, I would never have fallen in love with John. But you don't understand—it was not like that. I did not break up his married life. I was only one—of a procession."

"Ah, it was like that?"

She turned on him sharply:

"No, no, no! Not what you are thinking. That's what I mind most of all! The false idea that everybody will have of what John was like. That's why I'm here talking to you—because I've got a vague, foggy hope that I can make you understand. Understand, I mean, the sort of person John was! I can see so well what will happen—the headlines in the papers—A Doctor's Love Life—Gerda, myself, Veronica Cray. John wasn't like that—he wasn't, actually, a man who thought much about women. It wasn't women who mattered to him most, it was his work! It was in his work that his interest and his excitement—yes, and his sense of adventure really lay! If John had been taken unawares at any moment and asked to name the woman who was most in his mind, do you know who he would have said—Mrs. Crabtree."

"Mrs. Crabtree?" Poirot was surprised. "Who, then, is this Mrs. Crabtree?"

There was something between tears and laughter in Henrietta's voice as she went on.

"She's an old woman—ugly, dirty, wrinkled, quite indomitable. John thought the world of her. She's a patient in St. Christopher's Hospital. She's got Ridgeway's disease. That's a disease that's very rare but if you get it, you're bound to die—there just isn't any cure. But John was finding a cure—I can't explain technically—it was all very complicated—some question of hormone secretion. He'd been making experiments and Mrs. Crabtree was his prize patient—you see, she's got guts, she wants to live—and she was fond of John. She and he were fighting on the same side. Ridgeway's disease and Mrs. Crabtree is what has been uppermost in John's mind for months—night and day—nothing else really counted. That's what being the kind of doctor John was really means—not all the Harley Street stuff and the rich fat women, that was only a sideline—it's the intense scientific curiosity and achievement. I—oh, I wish I could make you understand."

Her hands flew out in a curiously despairing gesture and Hercule Poirot thought how very lovely and sensitive those hands were.

He said:

"You seem to understand very well."

"Oh, yes, I understand. John used to come and talk, do you see? Not quite to me—partly I think to himself. He got things clear that way. Sometimes he was almost despairing—he couldn't see how to overcome the heightened toxicity—and then he'd get an idea for varying the treatment. I can't explain to you what it was like—it was like, yes, a battle. You can't imagine the—the fury of it and the concentration—and yes, sometimes the agony. And sometimes the sheer tiredness."

She was silent for a minute or two, her eyes dark with remembrance.

Poirot said curiously:

"You must have a certain technical knowledge yourself?"

She shook her head.

"Not really. Only enough to understand what John was talking about. I got books and read about it."

She was silent again, her face softened, her lips half parted. She was, he thought, remembering.

With a sigh, her mind came back to the present. She looked at him wistfully.

"If I could only make you see—"

"But you have, Mademoiselle."

"Really?"

"Yes. One recognizes authenticity when one hears it."

"Thank you. But it won't be easy to explain to Inspector Grange."

"Probably not. He will concentrate on the personal angle."

Henrietta said vehemently:

"And that was so unimportant—so completely unimportant."

Poirot's eyebrows rose slowly. She answered his unspoken protest:

"But it was! You see—after a while—I got between John and what he was thinking of. I affected him, as a woman. . . . He couldn't concentrate as he wanted to concentrate—because of me. He began to be afraid that he was beginning to love me—he didn't want to love anyone. He wanted it to be light, easy, just an affair like other affairs that he had had."

"And you—" Poirot was watching her closely. "You were content to have it—like that?"

Henrietta got up. She said, and once more it was her dry voice:

"No, I wasn't—content. After all, one is human."

Poirot waited a minute, then he said:

"Then why, Mademoiselle—"

"Why?" she whirled around on him. "I wanted John to be satisfied, I wanted John to have what he wanted. I wanted him to be able to go on with the thing he cared about—his work. If he didn't want to be hurt—to be vulnerable again—why—why, then, that was all right by me!"

Poirot rubbed his nose.

"Just now, Miss Savernake, you mentioned Veronica Cray. Was she also a friend of John Christow's?"

"Until last Saturday night he hadn't seen her for fifteen years."

"He knew her fifteen years ago?"

"They were engaged to be married." Henrietta came back and sat down. "I see I've got to make it all clearer. John loved Veronica desperately. Veronica was, and is, a she devil of the first water. She's the supreme egoist. Her terms were that John was to chuck everything he cared about and become Miss Veronica Cray's little tame husband. John broke up the whole thing—quite rightly. But he suffered terrifically. His one idea was to marry someone as unlike Veronica as possible. He married Gerda whom you might describe inelegantly as a first-class chump. That was all very nice and safe, but, as anyone could have told him, the day came when being married to a chump irritated him. He had various affairs—none of them important. Gerda, of course, never knew about them. But I think, myself, that for fifteen years there has been something wrong with John, something connected with Veronica. He never really got over her. And then last Saturday he met her again."

After a long pause, Poirot recited dreamily:

"He went out with her that night to see her home and returned to The Hollow at 3 a. m."

"How do you know?"

"A house maid had the toothache."

Henrietta said irrelevantly, "Lucy has far too many servants."

"But you yourself knew that, Mademoiselle."

"Yes."

"How did you know?"

Again there was an infinitesimal pause. Then Henrietta replied slowly:

"I was looking out of my window and saw him come back to the house."

"The toothache, Mademoiselle?"

She smiled at him.

"Quite another kind of ache, M. Poirot."

Hints on Etiquette

Special thought should be given to lighting when one entertains at cards. Tables should be softly illuminated by floor lamps, one at each table, if possible.

Today's Horoscope

If you're celebrating a birthday today, you are cautions, careful, a good planner, and have a fair amount of executive ability. Because of your keen foresight and good judgment, many ask your advice and profit by it. You are frank and honest in your judgment of others. Take care in the selection of your mate, and do not marry in haste. Influences today are doubtful for social interests. Gain is probably on the way. In your next year, do not let carping criticism and erratic actions spoil your family and social harmony. Exercise restraint and cultivate a sense of humor. A child born on this date will encounter domestic or social difficulties which may result in quarrels and even estrangement, nevertheless, equitable fortunes are portended.

One-Minute Test Answers

2. Leah, then Rachel.
3. Jacob and Esau.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

WHAT with the piping times of peace and men and material available for road repair that fine old American pastime has returned—detouring.

The detour is the longest possible way between two points—and you can always be certain to find one when you are in a hurry.

The detour is a device that can change a glorious auto ride on a magnificent highway flanked by breathless scenery into a savage battle with the raw forces of nature.

Scientists have souped up our gas, done wonders to oil and grease, and engineers have turned out miracles of motor perfection, but no one seems to be able to do anything about the detour.

The detour, like rain, knows no caste. It plagues jaloppy and limousine, truck and bus with equal impartiality.

Detour roads are that in name only. They are usually rugged rocky or muddy masses of terrain that would defy the courage and agility of a mountain goat.

* * *

Some day every highway will have been completed and put in a permanent state of excellent repair. Of course, when that far off time is reached the auto will have become strictly a museum piece and everybody will be riding around on skyjets or rockets.

DIET AND HEALTH

Agonizing Neuralgia of Face

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN THE whole catalog of pain, there is probably no pain more devastating than that produced by the condition known as trigeminal, or facial, neuralgia. While not serious in itself, this condition is responsible for such intolerable agony that it may have disastrous consequences. According to Dr. Paul C. Bucy, of Chicago, if it is not relieved it may even lead to suicide.

Victims of trigeminal neuralgia frequently becomes recluses, refusing all companionship and concentrating their lives on the one object of avoiding pain.

Painful Attacks

Since painful attacks are often brought on by talking, eating, or touching the face, such patients remain silent, refuse to eat and become dirty and unkempt through fear of touching the head or face.

It is possible in some cases to relieve the pain of trigeminal neuralgia temporarily by injecting alcohol into a nerve. Some cases have been relieved by the use of large doses of vitamin B-complex. However, often these methods do not suffice, and operation for cutting the nerve is necessary.

Relief from Operation

According to Dr. Bucy, no patient is too old to have this operation carried out. It is possible to obtain complete relief by such operation, even in patients of advanced age who have been weakened by some disease such as high blood pressure, diabetes or lung disorders.

The operation usually requires from 30 to 60 minutes to complete. Immediately after the operation, the patient is allowed to sit up, and occasionally is even allowed out of bed on the first day. About the fourth or sixth day, he is discharged from the hospital.

Sensation Lost

Although some sensation is lost in the face, the appearance of the face and the movement of the muscles is little changed. If any paralysis does occur, which may happen occasionally, it usually disappears within a few weeks.

In some cases, it is necessary to cut the branches of the nerve which serves the eye. This renders the first part of the eyeball, or cornea insensitive. In such instances, the eye must be protected against bits of dust and other material which may get into it and not be noticed, because of the lack of sensation.

This is done by cleansing the eye each morning and night, keeping the hands and fingers away from the eye, and wearing a transparent shield over the eye when out of doors. If the eye should become inflamed in spite of these precautions, any object in it should be removed and the eye washed out with an antiseptic solution.

CROSBY'S HAT LOST BY HOPE IN BET ON RAIN

WAYNESBURG, PA., July 31—Because it rained in Waynesburg late Tuesday might, comedian Bob Hope owes attorney Elmer Daily a hat today. And to make the matter more interesting, Hope has to produce one of the toppers that previously adorned Bing Crosby's head.

Rain on July 29 is a tradition in Waynesburg, and each year Attorney Daily, the weather recorder who inherited the task from his father, bets a hat with some prominent person that the tradition will be preserved.

It has rained on this little community on July 29 for 68 of the last 72 years.

For a long while yesterday, Daily was a worried man, but at 9:50 P. M., a light sprinkle came down—enough to save the tradition. Hope, when he made the bet, wouldn't put one of his own hats on the line. He bet Crosby's. Now all he has to do is produce it.

NO-MEAT EATERS NAME MEMBER FOR PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, July 31—Dr. John Maxwell, 84-year-old naturopathic doctor from Chicago, was designated today as the vegetarian party candidate for president.

He was nominated on a platform whose chief plank advocates a diet free from the flesh of animal, fish or fowl.

The Vegetarians said they had no hope of electing their man, but expressed belief their campaign would attract the attention of the voters to a non-flesh diet.

Symon Gould, associate editor of the official publication of the vegetarian group—and incidentally, the party's candidate for vice president—nominated Maxwell, and said the organization had a potential of at least five million votes.

GERMAN WORKER RISING SLOWLY FROM WAR RUINS

Lack Of Essential Materials Slows House Program; 97% Rails Operating

BERLIN, July 31 — In 1945, most manufacturing industries in the western zones of Germany were at a standstill. By November 1946, industrial production in the American zone had reached a 44 per cent of 1936—A year of virtually full employment in Germany. With the exception of lumber, the production of all commodities is below the 1936 figure, but by 1948 prewar output is expected to be reached in a number of important industries.

In the British zone industrial production had recovered last Fall to only 38 per cent of 1936. The British zone includes heavy industries, most of which are under severe restrictions as possible war industries, while the American zone contains mainly light industries, manufacturing consumer goods.

UNFORTUNATELY, the exceptional severity of the last Winter has undone some of the progress experienced during the preceding year. Industrial production in the American zone fell in December to 39 per cent, in January to 31 per cent, and in February to 29 per cent of 1936. In March it recovered to 35 per cent, but this level still is about one-fifth below the peak of November 1946.

In spite of the low level of production, there is little unemployment. Even in February 1947, unemployment in the American zone was less than 450,000 out of a labor market of more than seven million.

Next to food, housing accommodations are the most pressing requirements of the German people.

Despite all war losses the population of the American and British zones has risen by around 20 per cent in comparison to prewar, mainly because of the inflow of Germans expelled from the area under Polish administration and from Czechoslovakia and other eastern European countries.

At the same time, urban housing suffered from terrific bomb damage during the war, especially in the industrial and commercial centers. In Bremen, for instance, 35 per cent of all homes were unusable in the Summer of 1945.

Reconstruction has been hampered by the scarcity of building materials, which in turn is due largely to the lack of coal: approximately 12.5 tons of coal are needed for producing the material necessary to build a small apartment.

IMPROVEMENT in housing conditions is particularly needed in the Ruhr district since the inflow of additional miners from the southern area of our combined zones, required to fulfill the program of output expansion, depends upon the availability of homes.

While military government plays an important role in drafting the program, its execution is entrusted to the German authorities. Military government has helped in that task by reducing to a minimum the requirements of military installations.

Since January of this year, trade between the American and British zones has been free, as the result of the economic merger of these zones, and trade between the merged zones and the rest of Germany will be increased under agreements concluded among the zonal authorities. Until and unless the overall economic unity of Germany is achieved, however, German recovery will be hampered by obstacles to the free flow of goods within the country.

TRANSPORTATION has suffered particularly badly from war damage. Military government can be proud, however, of its record in repairing railroads, inland waterways, port facilities and highways.

Railroad tracks in operation represent 97 per cent of the prewar total. Almost as many sunken vessels have been raised in the American zone as in all other zones together and the proportion of port channels cleared is higher than in any other zone. The American zone also has a larger porportion of operating motor vehicles than any other zone.

Despite this progress, transportation is even now in need of repair and maintenance is a constant problem. Allocations of materials are being made for this purpose but must be revised as required to meet new priority demands from other sides of the battered economic structure.

OSU STUDENTS PAY FEES EARLY, OFFICIAL WARNS

Vets Can Get Government Purchased Text Books After Registration

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Ohio State University's registrar has warned OSU students vacationing around the state to register for school and pay their fees early, no later than September 13, if they can arrange it.

Reason: Football tickets and—in the case of some veterans in certain curricula — textbook supplies may depend on prompt fee payments.

Registrar Ronald B. Thompson has reminded OSU's 25,000 students through Ohio that the opening football game is September 27, three days before the official beginning of classes.

Students can't get their tickets for this game with Missouri until they present a paid fee card to the athletic ticket office. Thompson recommends that registration be completed and fees paid by September 13 if students want to be fairly certain of getting their tickets, although this is not the official "final" date for fee payments.

Fees, in turn, cannot be paid until the student has completed registration procedure. Filling out of schedule cards and their approval by faculty counselors can be done now if students are enrolled in the colleges of agriculture, commerce, education and arts and sciences. Other colleges, such as engineering and the professional schools, are conducting their own registrations at various dates through August and early September. Graduate school registration will begin August 15.

Veteran students enrolled under the G. I. bill of rights may get their government purchased textbooks as soon as they have completed the registration process and those who do this early will avoid the shortages which may develop later in some areas of study, Thompson pointed out. Although the textbook supply is expected to be much better this year than last, according to University book store officials, there is still the possibility of shortages in some fields.

FARM BUREAU TO ENLARGE DISPLAY AT STATE FAIR

In keeping with the times, the Ohio Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus, will expand this year's exhibit at the 1947 Ohio State Fair Aug. 23-29, officials announced today.

A modern, artistic approach to the tent's entrance will welcome fairgoers this year and interior decorations and displays will be dressed in arresting colors. The tent has already been enlarged to 60 by 180 feet in order to accommodate a greater amount of farm machinery.

To provide ample drinking water for thirsty fairgoers in that section of the grounds, the Farm Bureau is erecting a multi-fountain with plenty of ice cold running water. Former facilities have been found inadequate, officials reported.

Various exhibits representing virtually every phase of the Farm Bureau program will be streamlined this year to add interest and cordiality to the atmosphere. Several special attractions are being planned.

SUPERFORTS ON RECORD FLIGHT TO WASHINGTON

TOKYO, July 31 — Eight B-29 Superfortresses of the 492nd atomic bomb squadron took off from Tokyo's Yokota air base today on a one-stop record-seeking flight to Washington.

The big bombers, ending a 30-day training period in Japan, soared into the skies at one-minute intervals.

They cleared the runways at 3:09 p. m. Tokyo time, and headed for Anchorage, Alaska, first and only scheduled stop on their massed flight to Washington.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's "Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes ... but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes—to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

Zing, comes the swing to your sweetheart

How's that Buick sweetheart of yours? Still giving out with that eager Fireball power surge at a toe-touch? Still answering every light finger-touch on the wheel?

Most likely you'll answer, "It's doing very nicely, thank you." But years have a way of whittling away at performance—sometimes so slowly you don't notice it.

So you can be in for a whopping surprise.

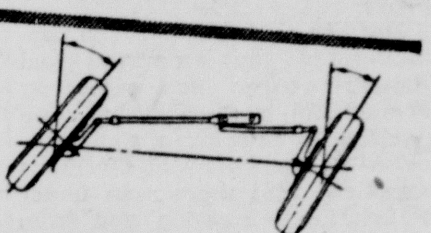
Just wheel your car into our shop and treat it to some real Buick care. The kind that comes from men who are truly fond of Buicks – who know what they can do and like to bring out all their oomph and go.

Let these men of ours test and tune your Buick with their special Buick tools. Let them replace anything that's worn with the right Buick-engineered part. Then, ZING, back comes the swing to your sweetheart.

Job for job, Buick car care costs no more than ordinary service. So, what's to lose? Come in to us whether it's for a tune-up, major or minor repair or regular lubrication. Your car rates it.



GEOMETRY? Ugh! But here it means Extra Comfort

Buicks take turns without swing or sway. This means more comfort and less fatigue every mile you travel. Credit that to the geometry of Buick front-wheel suspension.

The wheels are designed to bank slightly on curves—the inside wheel turns a degree or two sharper than the outside one. And they're hung at an angle that lets them give slightly to cushion road shocks.

So good Buick front-wheel service is a job for men who know Buick front-wheel action — who have Buick-approved checking equipment—who have at hand any needed Buick-engineered parts.

Another example of why Buick care keeps Buicks best. Whether it's for wheel alignment or any other attention, bring your car to us.

GOP REPORTED SPLIT OVER NEW INCOME TAX CUT

Knutson Refusing To Bring Up His Proposal For Slashes Again

WASHINGTON, July 31 — House Republican leaders were reported split today over whether to make a third try at reducing individual income taxes or wait until after the 1948 presidential election.

House Majority Leader Halleck (R) Ind. is pressing for passage once again when congress reconvenes, whether in special session this Fall or Jan. 6 in regular session.

Halleck wanted Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., who sponsored the two bills President Truman vetoed, to reintroduce his measure before congress adjourned last Sunday, but Knutson refused. It was reported that Knutson was supported in his stand by Speaker Martin (R) Mass.

KNUTSON DECLARED that as far as he was concerned, the legislation is dead until after the '48 elections. Martin asserted that tax reductions apparently will have to wait "until the country has a Republican president."

The two bills were identical except for the effective date. Both would have slashed individual income taxes four billion dollars a year, from 10-½ to 30 percent. One would have become effective July 1 of this year, the second next Jan. 1.

While Knutson insisted he would not reintroduce his bill at the next session, he left the way open, however, for such action. He told a reporter that he will abide by the decision of the house Republican steering committee. Under the constitution, tax bills must originate in the house.

The President vetoed the tax bills because, he stated, they would mean "the wrong kind of tax reduction at the wrong time." He urged that any surplus in the treasury be used to reduce the national debt.

NECRO TAKING HEAVY TOLL OF OHIO PORKERS

Farmers were warned today that "Necro", short for necrotic enteritis, a vitamin deficiency, may cause more losses than all other swine diseases combined.

A. J. Gross, animal health specialist of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus, said that death losses from Necro are probably exceeded only by losses from cholera. "In fact," he said, "the overall loss from necro may be greater than from cholera since necro is extremely wide-spread and pigs that survive may be stunted and unthrifty."

He said that only until recently has any discovery been made which has been effective as a treatment, a sulfa. In two forms, the drugs, Sulfa-guanidine powder and Kemvite (brand of Sulfaguanidine and Niacin), have shown upwards of 90 per cent recoveries under actual field conditions, he said.

When flower plants revert to earlier types and do not produce the type of blossoms expected of the variety, seed growers call them "rogues".

DOCK MEN WALK OFF JOB ON SHIP HAULING NITRATE

NEW YORK, July 31—A longshoremen's strike left the SS Molda stranded at a Brooklyn pier today with 2,643 tons of ammonium nitrate aboard the same type of fertilizer which caused the Texas City, Tex., and Brest, France, disasters.

The longshoremen walked off the 7,850-ton vessel and refused to work until they were paid double "ammunition time." This rate calls for $3.30 an hour ,instead of the usual $1.65. The Cosmopolitan Shipping Company refused to pay the double time.

The Cosmopolitan firm also owned the Ocean Liberty, which blew up at Brest and caused a loss of at least 19 lives in the French city. The Molda is docked at the same pier which the Ocean Liberty used before leaving on her ill-fated trip overseas.

The ammonium nitrate was taken aboard the Molda several days ago at Norfolk, Va., only general cargo was to be added in New York before the ship was scheduled to leave for France next Monday.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA
By KENNETH L. DIXON
Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 31—At the department store door, the big blond young man paused for a moment before pushing out into the crowd. It was not pleasant to contemplate what lay ahead, but he needed a moment to think—to memorize every move.

From now on, the slightest mistake might be fatal.

Having to ask the boss to let him quit early had been hard. After all, he'd only worked a few days on his first postwar job. But that was the only way he could get away with it. If he had waited until quitting time, some of the boys might have gotten wise, and he couldn't risk interference at this stage of the game.

OUT ON THE sidewalk, he stopped again, preoccupied with his plan. A girl shopper who bumped into him started to snap at him, but caught his "pardon me" and his smile—and smiled back. You couldn't blame her. Tall, broad-shouldered and handsome, he looked like the movie version of the star halfback.

As a matter of fact, he had been one. And being bounced along by the crowd brought back memories of those days. Wryly, he recalled that rough afternoon in the Rose Bowl, and realized it hadn't been half as tough as what he had to do today.

That snapped him out of his reverie. Slowly, he moved to the corner and stood there a moment, one toe of his sports shoe nervously tapping the curbing. He turned to two men who were talking behind him.

"Pardon me, sir," he asked, "but do you have the time?"

He smiled his thanks as one of them answered—pleased because his timing was perfect. Now, if only nothing happened.

GETTING ON the street car, he was nervous a moment for fear someone he knew might notice him. From here on out, everything depended on his not being recognized. Otherwise, he'd have to abandon his whole plan.

Sitting there, clenching and unclenching those big hands, he had a panicky moment of almost wishing someone would recognize him, and stop him before anything could happen. But then he got hold of himself. After all, he'd done tough things before. There was that day during the Bulge, for instance, when the eighty-eight had smeared his tank—and then the next shell had spattered him because he stuck around to pull a wounded gunner out of the escape hatch—And there was the time that—

The motorman called his corner. He got off and stood there until the sounds of the street car had died away in the distance, and then crossed to the sidewalk which led down a quiet residential zone.

Eight blocks to go, he thought, eight blocks o go. Now came the part he had dreaded for so long. And this was different than what he'd done in the Rose Bowl or the Bulge, because then he hadn't had time to think. But he'd thought too much about these last eight blocks, and he had come to wonder if he would have the courage to go through with it.

He still didn't know, but meanwhile he kept moving, scuffing his shoes along the sidewalk's edge, whistling idly like an afternoon stroller when it was time to slow down, pretending to consult directions in a notebook when he paused at a street corner and listened carefully.

So far so good, he thought grimly. All according to plan.

* * *

HALF A BLOCK away, she saw him coming. But frightened understanding kept her frozen where she stood until he finally entered the front door quietly and closed it behind him. Then she said only:

"You're home early, Charlie."

And if there were tears in her eyes, her husband couldn't see them. For Charles Boswell, who had just come home from work alone for the first time since the war—who had forced himself to find the way unaided through his new and fearful world of darkness—had been blinded as he fought to save a buddy back there on the western front.

THAT'S THE story they told me in Birmingham more than a year ago, after I'd met and talked to the soft-spoken young giant who for three years was the ground-gaining pride of the Alabama Crimson Tide.

And I tell it now because once again, after an absence of nearly a decade, Charlie Boswell's picture is being plastered across the sports pages of the nation's newspapers. He has just won the United States blind golfers' championship at Duluth, Minnesota—shooting better golf out of the shadows than you and I probably will ever shoot.

The boy with the unbreakable heart is back.

Some Australian lizards have traces of a third eye which was functional in lizards of past geological ages.

BE SURE

of Fuel Oil for Next Winter

Our best advice: Don't install any oil burning equipment unless you have positive assurance of your full winter's oil requirements in advance. Get a written contract.

Why?

Next winter's Ohio demand for fuel oil for home heating, industrial uses, farms, and railroads will be up several hundred per cent over the last prewar year, 1941. For instance, even last winter the use of oil heat was more than double what it was in 1941.

There is no trouble today with crude oil. Refineries are producing above previous levels and can go higher. The pinch is in transportation of crude petroleum and petroleum products, especially in the middle western and north central states. Pipe lines, barges, tankers and tank cars are transporting petroleum at capacity levels. Steel and equipment shortages today are holding back increases in transportation capacity.

Current circumstances have already caused Sohio and other companies to limit their supplies of gasoline. Now, the safety and convenience of all concerned requires temporarily that the use of fuel oils be kept within bounds.

What Sohio is Doing

We are doing everything possible to assure our contracted home heating customers of their required Sohio-Heat for next winter.

1. Already, as a safeguard for these customers, we have ceased taking on new home oil heating commitments and have urged our independent distributors to do likewise.
2. Sohio has offered contracts to all previous regular customers for their next winter's requirements and is urging immediate acceptance of these contracts.
3. During this summer we are filling every customer's home storage tank to the brim.
4. Sohio has offered low cost arrangements to customers for increasing their home storage.
5. We have taken pains to fully inform dealers in oil burning equipment.
6. Considerable new Sohio fuel oil storage is being built.

WESTBURY, N. Y., July 31—Allen Spencer, aged bay gelding from the East Aurora, N. Y., stable of John Beck, held a new world's record for trotting for 1-½ miles on a half mile track today.

Allen Spencer won the invitational North Shore trot in 3:11.1 at the Roosevelt raceway last night. The winner was driven by Milt Van Auken. The former mark of 3:14 was made by Kate Volo, bay mare by Volomite, in 1945.

Goose Bay, black colt by Volomite, won the 38th annual renewal of the matron stake No. 38 for three year old pacers. Driven by Mike Mahoney and owned by Saunders Mills, Toledo, O., Goose Bay finished second to Shamrock Joe in the first heat in 2:04.3 for the mile.

Coming from behind in the second and third heats he won going away in 2:05.3 and 2:05.4 respectively. Shamrock Joe, driven by Hyland, took place money in the two final heats. Forbes Chief, who finished third in the first two dashes, was scratched in the final heat because of lameness.

CHILD DEATH RATE HIGHER IN GREECE THAN BIRTHS

CHICAGO, July 31—Dr. John Caminopetros, director of the Pasteur Institute of Athens, Greece, said today in an article released in Chicago that children in Greece are dying faster than they are born.

He cited figures in the current Hygeia published by the American Medical Association, indicating that every fifth death is a child under five.

Dr. Caminopetros blamed the great number of child deaths to inadequate medical attention due to a shortage of hospital beds, doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Now it is quite easy for people, especially commentators, to stand off and say what Washington, theRepublicans , the Democrats, or government should do about this or that, to say, for instance: "if I had anything to do with it, I would do it this way." They do not understand what government is like, particularly free democratic government. Free government does not stop the winds. It lets them blow. It allows organized pressure groups to set up wind machines and try to get gales started. During this session they all blew. But they did not blow the Republicans away from what they believed in, and most important, they could not even nullify the trend of Republican political faith, even though the Republicans had to get two-thirds of congress to move.

The details are worth another story, perhaps many of them but for fear that you might lose a basic conclusion in a haystack of details, I would report first: the Republicans did rather well under the circumstances.

BIRTHDAY

On the 40th anniversary of the American Air Forces, Ted Malone will tell the story of Louis Zamperini, of Hollywood, former AAF Captain, and member of the 1936 U. S. Olympic team, wounded, but preparing for future Olympics, Friday, at 10:45 a. m., EST over ABC.

MYSTERY

"A Piece of String," the famous Guy de Maupassant story, will be dramatized on "Mystery in the Air," starring Peter Lorre, on Thursday, at 9 p. m. This replaces "Evening Primrose," originally scheduled for broadcast on this date. It's the story of a miser who innocently picks up a piece of string, but whose guilty manner causes him to be accused of a theft which he did not commit. The stigma of the crime, however, follows him to his grave.

MUSICAL TRIBUTE

Nadine Conner will blend her lyric soprano voice with the baritone of Nelson Eddy and the piano artistry of Leonard Pennario in a medley of tunes from the "Song Of Norway" on Thursday, at 8 p. m. EST over NBC. The musical tribute to Norwegian composer Edward Grieg will conclude a half-hour of music and song. Musical director is Robert Armbruster, who leads his orchestra in accompanying the three headliners. The rousing strains of Vincent Youmans' "Rise and Shine" as sung by Nelson Eddy will provide a spirited opening to the evening. The traditional "Danny Boy" has been scheduled as the singer's second solo number. Next will be Miss Conner's rendition of Ernesto Lecuona's stirring "Siboney," followed by a Nelson Eddy interpretation of "Chicken Dinner." Leonard Pennario will then take the spotlight to play Claude Debussy's "Clair De Lune." Mr. Eddy's fourth and final choice is "The blind Ploughman" by Clarke. Pardonably proud of her California pioneer ancestry. Nadine Conner highly prizes a cameo brooch of a woman's head which was handed down from her great-grandmother, Mary White, the first white child to sail around Cape Horn in a fo'master in 1843. After this ancestress grew up, she married and settled in the Golden State. Her daughter received the cameo brooch and it was subsequently passed on to Nadine's mother and then to her. Today the singer firmly believes that the little pin brings her luck and wouldn't dream of making any kind of professional appearance—radio, concert or opera—without it.

CAKE DEMONSTRATION

Vera Holly, popular radio singer and Peach Queen of 1947, will be guest of the "Betty Crocker Magazine of the Air," Friday, at 10:25 a. m. Miss Holly will be the cooking student as Betty Crocker demonstrates her method of preparing peach shortcake. Sponge cake will be the feature of the cooking demonstration. Win Elliot will lead a discussion of the question, "Is it true that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach?" Betty Crocker will describe a novel and inexpensive table decoration and conduct her unusual "All you have to do" department.

Bobby Ellis, 12-year-old new "Alexander Bumstead" of the Sunday CBS "Blondie" show, turned down a contract to appear in Paula Stone's forthcoming Broadway play, "Dan Cupid" in order to become the radio son of the perenially popular "Blondie" and "Dagwood Bumstead" in a deal that guarantees him five appearances in each 13-week cycle. He has been a radio actor for nearly eight years, having been signed to his first contract as the boy "Dallas Tremaine" in the Chicago-originated serial drama, "Arnold Grimm's Daughter." Bobby was then so tiny that he read his lines atop a tall box that raised his mouth to mike level!

BUILDING COSTS NOT LIKELY TO DROP FURTHER

Prospective Home Builders Advised By Experts Prices To Stay Up

Persons who are waiting to build or buy homes in the belief that prices will go lower are likely to be disappointed, it was declared today by the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information, following a nation-wide survey of all cost and price factors.

Today's building dollar is worth only 56 cents in relation to the 1941 dollar when spent for homes, the Bureau said.

THIS CONCLUSION was based on findings of Myron L. Matthews, vice president of Dow Service, who stated that the home which sold for $6,000 just before the war now must sell for $10,780 because of a 78 per cent rise in costs in the past six years.

This rise has been due largely to wage increases in the building trades and in wages paid to workers who produce building material," the economist said. "Wages are not likely to go down, it is believed, and therefore building costs will remain close to present levels for some time.

"Material prices have become fairly well stabilized within the past few weeks and no further appreciable price declines are expected, with the possible exception of lumber. The lower grades have dropped sharply in the past six or eight weeks and a moderate decline is expected in higher grades before long. This will not affect the over-all price of homes to any great extent, however, builders say."

IN AN effort to produce the best possible house at the lowest possible price, most builders today claim they are taking 10 per cent less profit than before the war. At the same time, the majority of them are putting many more refinements into homes now.

These so-called "extras", which the purchaser now demands and gets as standard, include fireplaces, complete laundry equipment including automatic washers, complete thermal insulation with mineral wool, colored tile bathrooms, more and larger windows and the most modern ideas in heating and plumbing.

GREEKS, REBELS SAID STAGING 'FIERCE BATTLE'

ATHENS, July 31 — Greek army troops and leftist guerrillas were reported locked in "fierce battle" today within the outskirts of Alexandroupolis near the Turkish frontier.

Dispatches from the area said that the guerrillas attacked from the Salonika area, fighting their way into the Aegean port in western Thrace and engaging elements of the Greek garrison.

Columns of smoke rising from the eastern outskirts raised fears that the guerrillas may have set fire to the railway station with mortar fire.

Other guerrillas simultaneously attacked the border towns of Soufflion, Farrai and Sikaralys.

Jews Face Trouble

BRITISH PLAN STERNEST ORDER IN HOLY LAND

Bodies Of Hanged Sergeants Found 'Booby-Trapped'; New Violence Flares

JERUSALEM, July 31 — The bodies of two British sergeants killed in reprisal for execution of three Jewish extremists were found today — booby-trapped so that they were blown to bits when troops tried to cut them down.

Severe punitive measures, probably the strongest ever taken by the British in Palestine, will be ordered tonight by British high commissioner Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham.

The orders will empower military commanders to take any steps necessary to combat future terrorism, even to the extent of blowing up buildings and other properties.

GEN. CUNNINGHAM summoned Mrs. Golda Myerson, chief of the Jewish agency's political department, to demand full cooperation from the Jewish community "in every sense of the word" in combating terrorism.

Official representatives of Palestine Jewry issued a statement condemning "the dastardly murder of two innocent men."

At least one British officer was injured when the booby-trap bombs went off, uprooting trees in the grove where the men had been hung. Eyewitnesses said the corpses had been hanging side by side dressed in civilian clothes.

A notice, printed in English and Hebrew, was pinned to one of the bodies. It said:

"This is the sentence of Irgun's high tribunal."

21 WOMEN DEAD IN PARIS PRISON CONFLAGRATION

PARIS, July 31—Twenty-one bodies were removed today from the ruins of a Paris women's prison that was swept by a flash-fire. Firemen combed the wreckage in search of possible additional victims.

Five hundred women prisoners were locked in the four-story stone building last night when the fire broke out. The prison is in the Tourelles Military Cantonment, and until recently was an army barrack.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The state department is stepping up its news broadcasts to Russia there will be 30 minutes more a day to explain the Hughes investigation.

Translated into Russian the Hughes probe makes a kind of sense.

As I understand it, Howard Hughes is charged with introducing Elliot Roosevelt to a flying boat while 12 chorus girls from Mars entertained the Kaiser.

But I think Sen. Ferguson should have allowed Henry Kaiser to quote from Tennyson. It is well known that Tennyson is politically neutral.

On the broadcasts to Russia, I hear they're coming along better than expected. In the last survey the "Voice of America" finished just behind the Stalingrad plow works program.

The Hoopervitch survey reports "all those in Siberia with the telephones were contacted."

Republicans Launch Presidential Boom For Senator Robert Taft

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Ohio Republican leaders launched a presidential boom for Sen. Robert A. Taft today but the GOP congressional leader declared that he "wanted to be certain there is a good chance to win" before making up his mind.

Taft, in Columbus for an Ohio Republican rally, told newsmen that he was "complimented by yesterday's action" on the part of Sen. John W. Bricker, Ohio's other Republican senator.

Bricker, who was the vice-presidential candidate in 1944, took himself out of the '48 picture by making public his "unqualified" support of Taft for the nomination.

The Ohio Republican central and executive committees met at noon and formally adopted a resolution asking Taft to be a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination as Ohio "favorite son".

Taft immediately issued a statement of thanks and declared that "I am greatly complimented by the action of the Ohio state central and executive committee." He continued:

"I owe any political progress I have made to the hard work and assistance of the Republicans of Ohio and I cannot adequately express my gratitude to them."

Taft, in his formal statement, reiterated that he was planning a Canadian vacation and then a speaking trip to the Pacific coast.

"In the meantime," Taft's statement continued, "I shall try to sound out public sentiment throughout the country to determine whether there is a good probability of my nomination and election.

"I shall make a definite reply to the committee early in October."

TAFT TO BLAST TRUMAN POLICY

Ohio's Senior Senator Will Invade Foreign Field For First Time

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the helmsman of Republican thought on domestic issues, will plunge into the foreign relations field tonight for the first time with a blast at the Truman administration's occupation policy in Germany.

It was learned today that Ohio's senior Republican senator, in his address before a statewide rally of Ohio GOP leaders tonight in Columbus, will charge that the blundering policy of the occupation in Germany has wrecked the entire economic set-up of Europe.

The Taft invasion of the foreign relations field, which heretofore he has left in the hands of Sen. Arthur A. Vandenberg of Michigan, is bound to be taken as an indirect declaration of his intention to run for the presidency of the United States next year.

This belief will be strengthened by an inferential attack he will make on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the 1944 presidential nominee and currently the leading contender for the top spot on the 1948 ticket.

TWO MEN HURT IN CRASH AT COURT AND MAIN

Two men suffered minor cuts and bruises in a two-truck crash at 1:30 a. m. Thursday at Court and Main streets.

A police report said Millard Henry, 16, Wellston, was the driver of a truck proceeding north on Court street which was in collision with a tractor-truck driven east on Main street by Lloyd H. Ferguson, 35, Route 3, Circleville, for George Van Camp, Circleville contractor.

Those hurt were Mr. Ferguson, and Willard Henry, 23, Wellston, who was a passenger in the truck operated by Millard Henry. Police quoted each driver as claiming he had the "green" light at the intersection.

BRICKER WOULD ACCEPT DRAFT

Ohio Senator Thows Support Behind Taft Campaign For President

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Sen. John W. Bricker stepped from the 1948 presidential picture today—but left the door wide open behind him.

Bricker, the 1944 Republican vice-presidential candidate and three-time governor of Ohio, threw his "unqualified support" to the possible presidential aspirations of his senatorial partner, Robert A. Taft.

But the cagy Bricker left the way clear for a "draft Bricker" movement if the convention should develop a deadlock between Taft and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1944 presidential standard-bearer and Bricker's running mate at that time. He stated he could not reject a draft movement in these words:

"No man who loves his country and believes in representative government and the principles of his party could do that."

His silver mane noticeably thinner than when he went to the senate but still the glamor boy of Ohio politics, Bricker said he

DEWEY UNMOVED BY TAFT'S TRY FOR GOP POST

ENROUTE WITH GOV. DEWEY TO DETROIT, July 31—New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey turned homeward today from his 6,500-mile tour of the West.

Shortly before he did, the New York chief executive served sharp notice on Sen Robert A. Taft of Ohio, his chief rival for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, that he will speak out on national and international issues when the "proper" time arrives.

Dewey spent his final evening in the Middle West at Flint, Mich., at a testimonial dinner with Michigan Republican leaders.

During the affair, the New Yorker was asked to comment on:

1—A statement by his 1944 running mate, Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, that the latter was withdrawing from the GOP presidential race and would support Taft; and

2—A statement by Taft in Washington that the time had arrived for frank discussion, especially by Republicans, of domestic and international issues.

Concerning the Bricker move, the New York governor replied: "I'm surprised, aren't you?"

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS PLAN STATE MEETING SEPT. 21

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—State Democratic party chiefs today set Sept. 21 for a statewide meeting of county chairmen and state central committeemen.

Leaders of the state organization held a dinner meeting yesterday but withheld all discussion of possible candidates for state offices next year.

CHANDLER WILL FIGHT SENTENCE

Appeal Planned For Newsman Convicted As Traitor For Nazi Aid

BOSTON, July 31—Counsel for Douglas Chandler, 59, convicted traitor newsman and "Paul Revere" of Nazi radio broadcasters, began work today on appeals to the United States circuit court of appeals and, if necessary, to the supreme court to save him from a life sentence and a $10,000 fine.

The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Francis J. W. Ford.

Chandler's attorneys announced insanity will be the basis of their appeal. They based his defense on the same grounds.

Before imposition of sentence, Chandler himself repudiated this defense. He told Judge Ford:

"I am, of course, not insane, but I was convinced I would not be rewarded as a prophet in my own country and permitted them (his defense counsel) to defend me on grounds chosen by them."

JUDGE FORD said he found Chandler a "fanatic" but sane. He said Chandler felt "if Germany won he would return to this country with great social progress, to take for the first time the place in quarters he felt in his mind he deserved."

Chandler was returned to East Cambridge jail pending decision by Washington officials on what federal prison he will be sent to.

BRITISH DEPTH CHARGE HARBOR AT LOS ANGELES

SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 31—Officers of the British cruiser H.M.S. Kenya revealed today they dropped a depth charge into mysterious bubbles alongside the ship in Los Angeles harbor.

The officers said they had received an anonymous telephone call warning of possible Jewish reprisals for British Palestine policy before the bubbles were seen.

Concussion from the charge, dropped late last night, was felt a half-mile away.

Two hundred persons, including high-ranking American Navy officials and Hollywood notables, were attending a reception aboard the ship at the time.

Lieut. John Stewart-Moore of the ship's officer list ordered the depth charge dropped. He said it was a "special-made one-and-one quarter pound demolition charge."

The anonymous telephone call was made to the British consulate late yesterday. Consulate officials said the voice warned that persons sympathetic to the Zionist movement intended to sabotage the ship in reprisal of British actions in Palestine.

U. S. Trying To Force Russia To Expose Plans

WASHINGTON, July 31—The United States today was embarked on a series of moves designed to make Moscow expose its intentions fully to the western world.

For this reason it was believed that United States deputy delegate to the United Nations, Herschel V. Johnson, will take an aggressive attitude when he returns to the security council for a showdown on the Balkan issue.

Johnson spent Wednesday in Washington conferring with officials of the state department who are specialists in the various fields involved in the Greek dispute. He returned to New York last night without having talked with Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

This fact alone left the impression that Johnson is not going to make any immediately sensational move. However, undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett indicated to a news conference that the state department has a series of maneuvers under consideration on the Greek question. He declined to say what they might be.

INTENSIFICATION of the United States attitude toward Russia was indicated also in a note challenging Moscow's right to remove so-called German and Italian assets from the satellite states of Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

The note, delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov by U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, refused to recognize such transfers in advance of the Russian ratification of the peace treaties with these countries.

It appeared obvious to observers that the move was designed to press Russia into ratification of the peace treaties.

Under these treaties Russia is obliged to move the bulk of her forces from the Balkans, where

COOL BREEZES SCHEDULED TO BLOW AWAY HEAT

Perspiring Circlevillians looked today for relief from the sweltering heat wave which has blanketed the state with the highest temperatures of the Summer.

The weatherman promised relief late today for this area from cool northerly winds. The high here yesterday was 90, with a low of 71. At 8 a. m. Thursday it was 77.

Forecasters predicted the mercury would hover between 80 and 88 degrees this afternoon with about the same range tomorrow. Sweltering conditions may resume Saturday, the weatherman said.

Northern Ohio was benefitting already from the northerly winds, and a little rain fell this morning in eastern Ohio, but no general rainfall was expected.

Toledo and Chesapeake, at the extreme northern and southern portions of the state reported 93 degrees Wednesday afternoon. Cleveland had 81 degrees and Columbus 90. Other temperatures: Akron 89-71, Cincinnatti 88-71, Cleveland 91-74, Dayton 87,71, Parkersburg, W. Va. 90-64, Wilmington 89-69, Zanesville 87-69.

KING GIVES CONSENT TO MARRIAGE OF PRINCESS

LONDON, July 31—King George VI formally consented today to the marriage of Princess Elizabeth, heiress-apparent to the British throne, and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, formerly prince of Greece.

In a 15-minute ceremony in a ground floor room of Buckingham palace, the king read to the privy council a document of consent.

Fourteen councillors were present. They included former prime minister Winston Churchhill, Premier Clement Attlee, the archbishop of Canterbury, and representatives of the dominions.

JAVANESE LEAVE SCORCHED EARTH TO DUTCH TROOPS

BATAVIA, July 31—An official communique announced today that Netherlands troops have reoccupied Malang, finding only flame-scorched ruins in what once was a beauty spot of eastern Java.

An Aneta news agency dispatch from the scene said that Malang is a "wilderness", practically devoid of life, with fires still burning in many sections.

Indonesian Republicans withdrawing before the tank-supported Netherlands troops blew up factories, motion picture houses and government buildings, while other structures were set on fire.

The Aneta correspondent said a pall of smoke hung over the city as the steel-helmeted Dutch troops, afoot and in American-built half-tracks, drove into Malang from the north, passing looted shops and piles of debris in the streets.

Other reports indicated that Republican resistance was stiffening and that the "scorched earth" operations were taking an increasingly heavy toll of property.

CHARGES 'SELLOUT'

NEW YORK, July 31—Former vice-president Henry Wallace, now editor of New Republic magazine, charged today that the 80th congress "was a sellout; the congress sold out the millions who cast votes to the few who put up the cash."

AAF EFFICIENCY GAINS NOTED

60 Percent Stepup Predicted By Thanksgiving As General Lists Plan

WASHINGTON, July 31—Lt. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg today set a 60-percent step-up in efficiency "by Thanksgiving" as the prime goal for the new, co-equal United States Air Forces.

The deputy commander of the nation's now-autonomous long-range air arm indicated that sweeping changes, particularly in administration, will develop as rapidly as extensive modifications in command structure can be effected.

It was understood that Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of the air forces, is still striving to meet a first-line strength of 55 bombardment and fighter groups, with 15 additional skeletonized groups also being maintained.

LAST YEAR'S budget cuts had forced a retrenchment from the original plan for 70-groups-of-the-line on active status.

Vandenberg indicated that the air forces would actively assume operational control over all existing air installations as soon as new defense secretary James V. Forrestal is sworn in by President Truman.

The bulk of the present bases are now under the broad general administrative control of the war department.

Yet to be ironed out, according to Vandenberg, are a wide variety of problems ranging from recruiting and budget planning to the more complex task of sorting out air and army industrial contracts.

SOVIETS BLAMES SMITH DISCIPLES FOR WALL SIGNS

WASHINGTON, July 31—Walls of the Soviet embassy in Washington today were plastered with signs reading "beware of spies working," "murder inc.," and "owners moving soon."

Michael S. Vavilov, first secretary of the embassy, personally removed a number of the placards. He told reporters:

"This is the work of the followers of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith. They are trying to 'improve' Soviet-American relations."

Vavilov instructed the newsmen to "be sure and put that word 'improve' in quotes."

Smith is in Washington for a mass meeting to be held in the Sylvan theater by members of his "christian front" faction.

Don Lohbeck of St. Louis, who said he represented the national christian youth of America, admitted he had tacked up some of the signs.

LOVETT TELLS PROBERS FLYING BOATS REJECTED

Kaiser And Hughes Later Won Contract To Build Three Cargo Ships

WASHINGTON, July 31—Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., said today that he "expects" both Howard Hughes and Johnny Meyer, Hughes' party-throwing publicity man, to testify before the senate war investigating committee tomorrow morning.

Ferguson, chairman of the subcommittee probing the huge Kaiser-Hughes flying boat contract, admitted that he had received no word from Hughes, however.

Ferguson's statement came after undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett testified that the joint chiefs of staff rejected the flying boat plan in 1942 when they were seeking planes for the North African invasion.

LOVETT, ex-assistant secretary of war for air, told the senate war investigating committee that later, after Henry Kaiser and Howard Hughes won a contract for three flying boats he "protested" the "pirating" of aircraft workers by Kaiser and Hughes.

H. Robert Edwards, a government engineer who spent four years at the Hughes flying boat plant, told of troubled conditions at the factory and said he saw Hughes only once during all that time.

Edwards related "squabbles" between the engineering and manufacturing departments. He testified:

"Nobody was in charge. The chief engineer wouldn't take orders from the manager (Edward Bern) and the manager was trying to get Hughes to crack down."

BERN TESTIFIED yesterday that the plant situation was "chaotic" and that the plant was a haven for Hollywood draft dodgers.

Neither Edwards nor J. H. Roper, another government engineer on the project, could tell the committee who was in auth-

MANY VEHICLES FAULTY, POLICE FIND IN CHECKUP

Circleville's part in the July annual state-wide traffic safety campaign ended Thursday noon and Police Chief William McCrady reported that since Sunday morning 313 cars were inspected and that 116—or 37 per cent—had defects deemed dangerous.

The police chief asserted that the defects included 32 brakes, two horns, three windshield wipers, seven head lights, 11 tail lights, and 61 stop lights.

Last week's police checkup disclosed defects in 80 autos or 28 per cent of the total of 280 cars examined. The defects in those 80 cars, Chief McCrady said, included 11 brakes, 47 stop lights, 17 tail lights, eight head lights, four windshield wipers, and one horn.

Owners of the cars in which the defects were dicovered, the police chief said, were ordered to have the hecessary repairs and adjustments made immediately.

The state-wide campaign, which began July 1, with police and state highway patrolmen participating, was to reduce traffic accidents.

OSLO SCENE OF U. S. PLANE CRASH; DIPLOMAT SAFE

COPENHAGEN, July 31—An American military plane carrying U. S. Ambassador Josiah Marvel, Jr., and four other persons overturned today in landing at Fornebu Field near Oslo, Norway.

There were no serious injuries but all aboard were shaken up.

Attaches at the American embassy in Oslo telephoned Copenhagen with news of the incident, saying the plane overshot the landing field and overturned.

ority for the government on the 18 million dollar job.

Lovett said that the Army finally agreed, at Nelson's request, to provide engines and instruments for three "experimental" wooden flying boats to be built by Kaiser and Hughes — with the understanding that there would be no "pirating" of workers from other aircraft manufacturers.

* * *

SEN. FERGUSON (R) Mich., chairman of the subcommittee handling the hearings, asked:

"Did you find pirating of labor later on?"

"Yes," Lovett replied. "Within a few months we received a complaint from one of our principal contractors — I believe it was a subsidiary of Boeing at Wichita, Kans.—saying that there had been hiring squads trying to pick up labor at his gates, from Kaiser-Hughes."

Lovett added:

"I wrote to Mr. Nelson and protested, because at that time we were trying to get out planes for the North African enterprise."

THE WITNESS said emphatically that the Army plane program "did not include the Kaiser project."

Kaiser, he said, told him about the proposed HK-1 flying boat to be built of plywood but had "no performance date or specifications—only a rough sketch or artist's drawing."

Lovett's testimony was given as the committee awaited some definite word on whether Hughes, millionaire aircraft designer and movie producer, would be on hand to tell his story by tomorrow morning — the deadline set by the committee.

Hughes' appearance promised a sensational showdown on his charge that Sen. Brewster (R) Maine, chairman of the full committee, offered to call off the inquiry if Hughes would merge his two airlines with Pan-American airways.

The joint chiefs of staff rejection of the Kaiser-Hughes project was contained in a memo to Nelson written by then undersecretary of war Robert P. Patterson on July 30, 1942.

Patterson said the joint chiefs reported that "since the maximum production of combat planes is necessary for the war effort, none of the existing facilities should be diverted to the construction of cargo planes."

WOMAN FINED $125 ON TWO CHARGES BY MAYOR

Two fines totaling $125 and costs were imposed on Miss Julia Moss, 23, West Ohio street, Wednesday afternoon by Ben H. Gordon, and she was committed to the Pickaway county jail.

Miss Moss smashed the glass from jail windows following her arrest by police at 2:15 a. m. Wednesday on South Court street. Mayor Gordon fined her $100 and costs for driving an auto when intoxicated, and $25 and costs for failure to possess a driver's license.

Cecil Knece, 26, Circleville, arrested with Miss Moss and charged with permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his auto, was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Gordon. Mr. Knece was also committed to the county jail but he subsequently paid the fine and was released.

U. S. Trying To Force Russia To Expose Plans

they now constitute a major force in compeling compliance with Moscow demands, within a given period after the treaties come into force.

THEY BECOME effective after the United States, Britain, France, Russia and the conquered state have ratified them. Thus far the three western powers already have deposited their instruments of ratification. Reports from Europe have indicated that Moscow will not ratify until the conquered state has done so first.

As a result of developments within the last few days, observers are convinced that United States policy, for the time being, will concentrate on forcing the Russians to agree to some form of peace treaty with Germany and Austria when the "Big Four" foreign ministers meet again in London in November.

PARTITION SUIT FILED IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Mrs. Ruth Brooks Deneau, Camden, N. J., who claims a two-thirds interest in a 122-acre Perry township farm listed in the will of her grandfather, Jefferson Brooks who died 47 years ago, filed suit Wednesday in Pickaway county common pleas court asking that the property be partitioned and that she be given an accounting of rentals and profits.

Defendants named in Mrs. Deneau's petition are: Homer E. Woods, and his sons, Robert I. Woods, Donald G. Woods and William Woods, all of Columbus. Mrs. Deneau, who recites that Jefferson Brooks died July 12, 1900 and that her father, John Brooks, died intestate May 20, 1920 leaving her as his sole heir, contends that her grandfather bequeathed a life estate in the farm and that upon the death of her father she became the owner of an undivided two-thirds interest in the property. She alleges that Homer E. Woods has been receiving all rents and profits from the farm and that she is entitled to an accounting.

Jones named president and general manager O. B. Littick and secretary-treasurer H. Clay Littick in his conspiracy and libel action. His petition charged the rival publishers with conspiring to libel him in stories about an altercation between Jones and John Peart, a radio newscaster.

Peart has sued Jones for $100,463.75 damages for injuries allegedly received when Jones pushed the newsman while both were in a drugstore owned by Jones.

Ernest N. Taylor, 37, Ashville, was fined $300 and costs in the court of Mayor H. H. Brown, Wednesday at Chillicothe, on a charge of driving an atuo when intoxicated. Mayor Brown suspended $200 of the fine.

State highway patrolmen had arrested Taylor after his northbound car was in collision Tuesday night with the auto of Charles W. Bethel, 60, Route 1, Chillicothe. Patrolmen said the mishap occurred one and one-half miles south of Chillicothe, that damage to the Bethel car was estimated at $180 and that the after zig-zagging on the road for one-fifth of a mile the Taylor machined turned over. Taylor was given first aid in the Chillicothe hospital for a left elbow laceration.

BRITISH PLAN STERNEST ORDER IN HOLY LAND

throughout the wooded grove in which the bodies were found exploded. The bodies had been discovered only a short time before.

One eye-witness said that pieces of flesh were thrown as much as 50 yards from the spot where remains of the hapless soldier-hostages were discovered in a government-owned forest three miles south of Nathanya.

Several Jewish settlement police were said to have made the initial discovery of the bodies, thus clearing up the mystery of their whereabouts since Irgun Zvai Leumi announced the hangings yesterday. Irgun is an underground Jewish faction.

The sergeants were abducted 20 days ago when leaving a Nathanya cafe.

DISCOVERY of the bodies came as British troops swarmed through the area in one of Palestine's largest manhunts.

Haganah, underground army of the Jewish agency, joined the hunt. Following Jewish agency denunciation of the reprisals — opening what Irgun Zvai Leumi warned would be a British blood bath for the execution of three of their colleagues — the Haganah members staged a mass comb-out of their own in the Nathanya district.

Irgun, of which the three executed extremists were members, continued meanwhile to publicize its action in hanging the sergeants. It posted placards announcing the reprisal.

MEANWHILE, fresh violence in Palestine resulted in the deaths of two British soldiers and injuries to three others. The casualties occurred when a land mine exploded beneath a military vehicle on the road near Hadera.

(A London Daily Graphic dispatch said that about 50 troops demonstrated near Hadera after this incident, firing shots and smashing furniture in a cafe.)

Bricker made his announcement of Taft support at a news conference which preceded today's statewide gathering of Republican big-wigs. He predicted that the state central and executive committee and the Ohio GOP congressional delegation would endorse Taft unanimously at the harmony gathering.

RICHARDS COPS 7 TO 0 VICTORY AT PORTSMOUTH

McKinney Bests Easter In District Tournament; Carl Guick Stars

Todd McKinney pitched a one-hitter and Carl Gulick did some fancy hitting as Richards Implement team won in the district softball tournament at Portsmouth Wednesday night.

Carl Gulick hit a homer, triple and double in three times up as Richards won 7-0 from Yellowbud MWA. The winners got seven hits off their teammate, Guy Easter, who is pitching for Yellowbud in the tournament.

Jim Davis spoiled McKinney's bid for a no-hitter with a blooper back of third. McKinney struck out 14.

Richards scored first in the opening inning when they got one run, added two in the second, one in the third and finished with three in the fifth.

Richards return to Portsmouth Friday night to play Wallett Motors, Chillicothe at 9 o'clock. Blue Ribbon also plays Friday night meeting Chillicothe Gold Cross Shoes at 7.

FINED MANAGER

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—American Association president Frank C. Land fined Manager Herman Franks of St. Paul $25 today for delaying a game with Louisville at St. Paul on July 25.

Lane explained that the penalty was "for delaying the ball game and needless bickering with umpire James Clagg." Clagg ousted Franks from the ball park.

Dodgers Win Thriller; Giants Top Blackwell

NEW YORK, July 31—A shocked and groggy St. Louis Cardinal team hummed the "Blues" today while Brooklyn whistled a split-tooth rendition of "Praise the Lord, We were almost decommissioned" following last night's almost incredible 11-to-10 Dodger conquest.

The swashbuckling National League front-runners pounced on the injured Harry Brecheen and his comrades for a 10 to 0 lead in the first five and a half innings to seem assured of their 12th straight victory and a nine-game lead in the senior loop.

The resurgent Cards stormed back with four runs in the sixth and smashed across six more in the ninth after two were out, to tie up the ball game.

Brooklyn then demonstrated its tenacious quality by clipping the sixth St. Louis pitcher, Jim Hearn, for the winning run. Gene Hermanski doubled, and with two out, the Louisville Colonel, Pee Wee Reese took charge and rifled a single to center.

EWELL BLACKWELL, 1947's mound sensation, suffered a rude jolt in his quest for establishment of a major league record for consecutive pitching triumphs. The gaunt Cincinnati ace with the fluid cross-fire motion went ten dramatic innings before a chance at baseball immortality was denied him.

Blackwell, with 16 straight victories, was after Rube Marquard's 1912 standard of 19 successive wins and Carl Hubbell's unaccepted mark of 24 straight victories over two seasons, 1937 and '38.

The home-run hammering New York Giants blasted Blackwell's dreams by tying up the game on a ninth inning circuit clout by Willard Marshall and winning in the tenth, 5 to 4.

Another sustained accomplishment went by the boards in the Pirate-Brave doubleheader. In the first game, which swaggering Kirby Higbe won for the Bucs, 5 to 3, Frankie Gustine was held hitless after having hit safely in 21 consecutive games.

THE BRAVE home run power exerted itself in the nightcap, with four Braves batters (Tommy Holmes, Connie Ryan, Danny Litwhiler, and Mike McCormick) hitting for the circuit in the 8-to-5 brave triumph. Bob Carpenter failed dismally in his comeback attempt with the Chicago Cubs, the veteran right hander being shelled in the 9-to-2 Philly victory.

In the American League, the second place Red Sox stumbled again, falling 11-½ games off the torrid Yankee pace by losing to the Cleveland Indians, 13 to 7. The Yankees walloped the Detroit Tigers, 8-5.

The Philadelphia Athletics lost their 20th one-run game by submitting, 3 to 2, to southpaw Frank Papish's steady five-hit hurling. Rudy York slammed his 11th home run with one on in the first to give the Chisox an early 2-to-0 edge.

The baseball gods frowned again on Washington pitcher Walter Masterson. The plucky hurler lost a tough 2-to-1 eleven-inning game to Jack Kramer and the St. Louis Browns on Eddie Yost's error on Vernon Stephen's grounder.

RANGERS DEFEAT GAS HOUSERS FOR LEAGUE TITLE

Completing their season with a 12-3 win over the Gashouse Gang, the Park Rangers were declared champions of the Ted Lewis Junior Softball League. The winners suffered but one defeat throughout the season.

Thursday night as a preliminary game in the night league circuit the Park Rangers will meet the league all-stars in what promises to be an interesting battle. Scheduled to pitch for the Rangers is Roger "No-Hit" Bennington while Ted Davis, Curt Bradley, and Ted Morgan will hurl for the All-Stars.

Members of the All-Star team include: Jerry Rooney, Dick Maiden, Milt Spangler, Mike Rooney, Elwood Stewart, Bill Beck, Jim George, Dave Coffland, Walt Heine, and Ronnie Seall.

The Park Rangers landed catcher Jerry Pritchard, pitcher Roger Bennington, infielder Ronnie Bennington, and outfielder Merda Marshall.

BIG CROWD SEES GIRLS TEAMS

Columbus Farm Bureau Wins From Deeds Dairy Under Park Lights

Columbus Farm Bureau, with Lucille Redman, Circleville girl, contributing some good hitting and fielding, defeated Lancaster Deeds Dairy team 12-8 in a girls softball game in Ted Lewis park Wednesday night before a large crowd.

The teams were not up to the standard of other girls teams which have played here but fans were pleased with the contest.

Pitcher Shull of the Deeds team did a good hurling job but her support was poor. She allowed seven hits, some of the questionable variety, but her teammates made nine errors. She and her teammates got 14 hits off J. Perry but they could get only eight runs.

THURSDAY NIGHT at 7 the Park Rangers, champions of the Summer recreation program in Ted Lewis park, will meet an all star team from the playground under the night league field lights. Following this game Blue Ribbon and Container Corporation play a tournament game.

Friday night Mumaw's Market and VFW clash in a tournament game.

COBB TO TRY

NEW YORK, July 31—John Cobb, English auto driver and holder of the world's speed record of 369.7 miles per hour set in 1939, announced today he will leave for Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, next week for a new attack on his mark.

RED BIRDS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT OVER BREWERS

American association is three top teams nursed bruises inflicted last night by lesser lights.

Kansas City's league leading Blues were in the worst shape, taking a double thumping from last place Toledo, 13 to 6 and 6 to 4. The twin triumph enabled the Mud Hens to climb into a seventh-place tie with Minneapolis.

Cuddles Marshall and Tommy Byrne, usually among manager Bill Meyer's more reliable hurlers, were the victims of a 14-hit Toledo attack in the seven inning first game, the hens getting nine runs in the sixth. Whitey Platt had a homerun for the hens.

Second place Louisville fell short in a late-inning rally, losing to Minneepolis, 5 to 4. Indianapolis defeated St. Paul by the same score.

The Columbus Red Birds made it three straight wins over third place Milwaukee, 6 to 3, behind Les Studener's eight-hit hurling. Barney Olsen homered for the Birds while Tom Neill hit one for the Brewers off Studener.

AIR POWER IS PEACE POWER!

HELP BUILD AMERICA'S AIR POWER ON AIR FORCE DAY, AUGUST 1ST

No one today questions the fact that the whole future of the United States may rest in the very clouds over your head. The security of this country demands strong, well-trained, well-equipped Air Forces, superior to any in the world.

And the new, reorganized Air Forces give thousands of eligible young men an opportunity to take an active part in building America's Air Power . . . on the ground as well as in the sky.

You may, for example, enlist in the Air Forces for three years. If you have a specialty which will qualify you, you may also be able to enlist in a grade at higher pay.

If you have had Air Forces experience, you may join the Air Reserve and continue your military aviation training outside of business hours.

Or you may join the Air National Guard and perhaps become eligible for advanced technical training at special Air National Guard schools.

Think it over. If there are Air Force Day exhibits in your locality, be sure to visit them on August 1st. If no demonstrations are to be held nearby, get a copy of the new Air Forces pamphlet, "Know Your Air Forces," at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

NOW — THE WORLD'S GREATEST OPPORTUNITY FOR A CAREER IN AVIATION

Today the Army Air Forces offer high school graduates an unprecedented opportunity to get the finest aviation schooling on earth — and select your school or course before you enlist.

The AAF Career Plan is unlike anything ever offered before. It permits selected high school graduates to apply and qualify for AAF specialized courses of their own choice. Simply go to your U. S. Army Recruiting Station, explain the kind of aviation training you want and you will receive an application blank and a complete list of available courses.

When you are selected to attend the course of your choice, you enlist in the Army Air Forces for 3, 4 or 5 years. After your basic training period you are guaranteed the education you have selected to make you a specialist in the type of work you have chosen.

Get a list of all the schools and courses open to you under the AAF Aviation Career Plan at your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

JOAN CRAWFORD SHIVERS WHILE 'BURNING UP'

Pretending To Be Cold As Hollywood Sun Soars Tests Actress

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 — Joan Crawford sat shivering in front of a roaring fire.

The temperature outside was above 90 but the script for "Daisy Kenyon" said it was 55 and Miss Crawford is an actress who believes the script.

She pulled her $1200 beaver coat tighter about her 115 pounds and went into a long scene with Dana Andrews and Henry Fonda who, the cads they are, were in their shirt sleeves enjoying it all. Midway the perspiration stood out on her forehead and Otto Preminger, the producer-director, complained.

"Do you have to perspire like that?" he said accusingly. "You're a great actress. Try to control yourself."

THE MAKEUP man put an extra gob on her face, designed to keep the perspiration from showing, and the prop man got the blaze roaring better than before. It was a lovely fireside scene in a pretty little cottage.

After it was finished, Miss Crawford said she felt as though she had just escaped from Dante's inferno.

She said:

"I've been working in this picture five weeks and I've dropped a pound a week. Why do the studios always film Winter scenes in the Summer?"

The worst, she said, was when Preminger dragged her out into a sun that sent the temperature up to 98, put her in galoshes, a fur coat and a fur hat, and told her to pretend she was having a rough Winter in New England.

"It was a rough Winter," she said, "in Hollywood."

HOLLYWOOD'S most interesting brother and sister act this season is the Cagneys — Jimmy and Jeanne.

Having spent the last seven years in New York gaining valuable theatrical experience, Jeanne is now back in town playing the leading feminine role in "The Time of Your Life," which stars brother Jim and is being produced by her other brother, Bill.

It's definitely not the usual case of Hollywood nepotism, though. Bill and Jimmy had to do a lot of fast talking to get their kid sister into the picture. Jeanne wasn't sure she was ready yet to step into such an important role.

YOUTH AT THE WHEEL

AN INTERVIEW with insurance and safety officials in one of our large cities uncovers the fact that there is one fatal accident for each two million miles driven by the 16-year-old driver group. For the ages of 20 to 25, the average is one in eight million, while the more cautious 45 to 50 group has one fatality to every 21 million miles driven.

"Junior drivers are poison." This is what insurance men say of the youngsters who take off in Father's car nearly every evening, scattering destruction in their wake.

We have taught children to drive, or they have learned by watching, and they seem to have an instinctive grasp of the mechanics of the operation. But there is much more than mechanics involved in driving a car. Courtesy, consideration, common sense and good judgment are even more important than driving ability as such. In driving, as in other fields, it is character that counts. No one should be allowed to control so huge a potential of destruction as an automobile until he can prove maturity of judgment and self-control.

THE TWO REAL PARTIES

NAME THE two chief political parties. Democrats and Republicans? Not so, Pearl Buck, the novelist, told the General Federation of Women's Clubs the other day. These, she says, are just names. The real line is between the world-minded and the individual-minded, those who think that the United States should actively try to pull the world out of its desperate situation, and those who would wash their hands of it all.

Logically the major parties should divide along these lines, with one group in one party and the other in the opposition. Actually American parties are not built that way. Both parties have interventionists and isolationists, high-tariff advocates and low-tariff advocates, Congressmen who legislate for the employer and Congressmen who try to help labor. It is not logically defensible, but it has always been so; and, it may be suspected, will always be.

LEAKY ROOFS

THE GREEKS obviously need relief, but there are statesmen at Washington in a similar situation. The latter relief naturally centers around politics, but is also directly concerned with a leaky roof. Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, dean of Ohio representatives in Congress, insists that tax relief means more than mere Greek relief to a home owner whose roof leaks. And that might have many applications, at home and abroad.

There is no end to life's perils. A midwestern vacationist, swimming peacefully in a lake, had his leg broken by a hitskip motorboat.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 31 — The Republicans did rather well. Their first half-a-chance at national leadership in 15 years developed finally, of course, into what has been called "government by a two-thirds majority."

Democratic presidential opposition forced them to acquire two-thirds of congress to do anything important about the major problems such as unions and taxes. But when you add up the complete score of the first session of their 80th congress, you will find the early Spring dissatisfaction with their delays proved to be unjustified and they finished with genuine accomplishments.

Their greatest overall accomplishment—and I think this is truly unprecedented in modern American government in their circumstances—was that they did not give enough ground to nullify themselves. They stood rather firm for what they believed, in the face of all the propaganda gales which blew. They did not trim their sails down to the point of nullification of their proposed course, which has been the great defect of good government, common to our times.

To put it in examples, they did just about what they said they would do before election on the union reform bill. They took a lot of time to do it, but when they were finished they were able to make their new law reach the statute books over a presidential veto. On taxes, they fell short of acquiring a two-thirds majority to do the same thing, but by only a few votes.

Their outstanding men-of-the-session in this respect was Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts. Quietly and without publicity, he guided the house carefully and reasonably to the charted Republican course. And in the end he wound up as the man designated by the new law of this congress to succeed the President if anything should happen. The law was strongly approved by both Republicans and Democrats alike, who have appreciation of Martin's strong sense of fairness and justice. If I were running a national magazine which looked anywhere near the genuine basis of things, Martin would be my man-of-the-year.

The Republicans were quite smart politically. They have Mr. Truman in the position of defeating tax reduction, and if that increases his popularity with taxpayers, then anything can. Particularly smart was the way they caught Mr. Truman running off with the foreign policy and European relief. I assume from the developments they suspected he would pull what might be called a Roosevelt on them, and present them with a Democratic fait accompli. Detecting this, they designated a series of committees to look into every angle of the foreign situation, relief, trade, finance and all the other angles during the congressional recess. If Mr. Truman is influenced into anything extraordinary during the absence of congress, it will be because all these committee fell asleep. It looks to me as if the Republicans are working gradually away from the old fetishes of this nation toward Europe and the world, and toward something which will be in accordance with the facts. They are not trying to revise the facts to fit a purpose.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE .... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of bright sunshine. Soon outside and much pleased by the sight of fields cleared of wheat and the upsurge of corn. Looks as though the coarse grain, in my neighborhood at least, will beat the frost. Everyone and everything seems to have forgotten the long floods. Even the chickens have calmed their fears and have come down a peg or two from the highest perches. Finally turned inside for coffee and then downtown.

Charlie Carter, the local weatherman, is losing that worried look and regaining friends who had started blaming him for the record run of rainy weather. Chatted with him briefly and found him practically his old self. Learned from Bob Colville that tentative plans are complete for the Pumpkin Show and from all indications the event will be "bigger and better" this year.

There goes Ray Rader, who is in charge of building at the new fairgrounds. Progress there far surpasses the expectations of even the most optimistic. That big plat begins to look like what it is supposed to be. Basketball there this Winter unless the unexpected happens.

Met Dud Carpenter and sought his version of a fishing trip to Canada with Earl Smith, but he refused to talk except on the advice of counsel. And Earl Smith is his counsel. Luck must have been bad. First time I have experienced a fisherman requiring legal support for his fish lies. Seems a grave error to me. Fish now made a matter of legal record have absolutely no chance to grow through the years.

Saw Dr. Courtright sitting mighty proud in his new Olds-Well, a new-car owner has a right to be proud in these post-war days we anticipated so much and expected to yield so much. Had coffee with Bill Defenbaugh and learned that he has given up his annual Fall tour of the West and will go to Florida this Winter instead. Going in a new car, too — he hopes. Think he will wish he had gone West instead of South. But maybe not; he's contrary at times.

There goes Herschel Hill who is assembling tackle against a fishing trip to Brevort Lake. And Bill Kochheiser, who has his eyes on Manitoulin. Vaden Couch, too, who is doing some wishful thinking. Jim Stout and Bob and Luther Bower with their wives leave soon for Goulais bay. Bob and Luther participated in the CORL rifle match here Sunday, but they were not listed in the published list of shooters, and since Sunday have been trying to explain to their wives why they were away from home for the entire day. Well, ladies, after what they said to me about omission of their names it is okeh if you teach them to bark.

In the afternoon did greet some businessmen who are turning wishful eyes on the ville, and a group of newspapermen from Zanesville, here to inspect new machinery in this printery. Your paper is so well in step with the times that hardly a week passes without visits from publishing organizations, some from far points. Might interest you to drop in and see automatic typesetting among other things. Since it is your paper, you are always welcome.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SETTING UP THE DUMMY

ORDINARILY the declarer in a suit contract plots his course on a basis of winding up with his own hand taking the last few tricks which bring him into port safely. There are plenty of interesting situations, however, that favor setting up of the dummy. This is usually when the dummy is nearer to set-up than the declarer's hand. In such cases, the dummy is treated as the master hand, especially when the declarer's reading of the defenders' cards indicates that such a method is feasible.

South was more than willing to let the bidding end at just 2-Spades until West reopened the bidding and North then showed enough stuff to go voluntarily to 3-Spades. Then all at once South decided to reach out and try for game. He was glad he did.

To impede what sounded like an extra good trump situation, with cross-ruffing likely, West laid down his spade A and K. Then he switched to his club Q. That gave South a chance to do some good card reading. He saw that, if he took that in the dummy and led toward his A, he would be able to ruff only one club in the dummy. He would be beaten surely, as he could not avoid a heart loser except by a discard on diamonds, in which the finesse probably would lose. So he looked for other measures.

West had shown so many cards in hearts and clubs that East surely had the diamonds bunched, including probably both the Q and 10. In that case, he had an almost sure way to set up the suit, by preserving all entries to the dummy.

So he took the third trick with his club A, scored the diamond A and K, led the 7, which East covered with the 10 and South ruffed, went to dummy with the club 10 to the K, which East ruffed with the spade Q. East returned the heart J to the A and the diamond 9 was brought from the dummy. East covered with the Q and South ruffed again. Now a club ruffed by the spade J put him in dummy to run the rest of the diamonds, discarding all of his own losers. The final trick then was the heart 2 ruffed by the spade 9. It was neat dummy reversal play.

AN uncertain, perplexing and complicated set of circumstances threatens the easy going of ambitious projects already launched on promising premises. False moves, unprincipled tactics, even stupid or ill-considered ways and means, might upset the encouraging buildup for popularity, good position or relations with higher-ups or influential persons. Business, finance, social and affectional aspirations may be jeopardized by wrong or fumbling gestures. Keep alert and straightforward.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find the final culmination of their affairs depends upon the shrewd, sagacious, and high-principled manipulation of matters already well under way, holding prospects of progress and fulfilled ambitions of consequence.

It is possible that a want of clarity, keen grasp on uncertain developments, with confused or indecisive conduct, may endanger flourishing conditions. Especially should resort to expediency rather than principle be avoided. Funds, assets, personal popularity and prestige are at stake, dependent on clean cut and honest effort.

A child born on this day has splendid prospects for success, with enhanced popularity and progress, but a slant toward the irregular or shiftless might prove its undoing. Principle, not expediency, should be inculcated.

CHAPTER THIRTY

HERCULE POIROT'S interest in Henrietta Savernake grew stronger. He said:

"You had been in love with Dr. Christow—for how long?"

"About six months."

"The police will have, I gather, no difficulty in discovering the fact?"

Henrietta considered.

"I imagine not. That is, if they are looking for something of that kind."

"Oh, they will be looking, I can assure you of that."

"Yes, I rather thought they would." She paused, stretched out her fingers on her knee and looked at them, then gave him a swift friendly glance. "Well, M. Poirot, what does one do? Go to Inspector Grange and say—what does one say to a mustache like that? It's such a domestic family mustache."

Poirot's hand crawled toward his own proudly borne adornment.

"Whereas mine, Mademoiselle?"

"Your mustache, M. Poirot, is an artistic triumph. It has no associations with anything but itself. It is, I am sure, unique."

"Absolutely."

"And it is probably the reason why I am talking to you as I am. Granted that the police have to know the truth about John and myself, will it necessarily have to be made public?"

"That depends," said Poirot. "If the police think it has no bearing on the case, they will be quite discreet. You—are very anxious on this point?"

Henrietta nodded. She stared down at her fingers for a moment or two, then suddenly lifted her head and spoke. Her voice was no longer dry and light.

"Why should things be made worse than they are for poor Gerda? She adored John and he's dead. She's lost him. Why should she have to bear an added burden?"

"It is for her that you mind?"

"Do you think that is hypocritical? I suppose you're thinking that if I cared at all about Gerda's peace of mind, I would never have fallen in love with John. But you don't understand—it was not like that. I did not break up his married life. I was only one—of a procession."

"Ah, it was like that?"

She turned on him sharply:

"No, no, no! Not what you are thinking. That's what I mind most of all! The false idea that everybody will have of what John was like. That's why I'm here talking to you—because I've got a vague, foggy hope that I can make you understand. Understand, I mean, the sort of person John was! I can see so well what will happen—the headlines in the papers—A Doctor's Love Life—Gerda, myself, Veronica Cray. John wasn't like that—he wasn't, actually, a man who thought much about women. It wasn't women who mattered to him most, it was his work! It was in his work that his interest and his excitement—yes, and his sense of adventure really lay! If John had been taken unawares at any moment and asked to name the woman who was most in his mind, do you know who he would have said—Mrs. Crabtree."

"Mrs. Crabtree?" Poirot was surprised. "Who, then, is this Mrs. Crabtree?"

There was something between tears and laughter in Henrietta's voice as she went on.

"She's an old woman—ugly, dirty, wrinkled, quite indomitable. John thought the world of her. She's a patient in St. Christopher's Hospital. She's got Ridgeway's disease. That's a disease that's very rare but if you get it, you're bound to die—there just isn't any cure. But John was finding a cure—I can't explain technically—it was all very complicated—some question of hormone secretion. He'd been making experiments and Mrs. Crabtree was his prize patient—you see, she's got guts, she wants to live—and she was fond of John. She and he were fighting on the same side. Ridgeway's disease and Mrs. Crabtree is what has been uppermost in John's mind for months—night and day—nothing else really counted. That's what being the kind of doctor John was really means—not all the Harley Street stuff and the rich fat women, that was only a sideline—it's the intense scientific curiosity and achievement. I—oh, I wish I could make you understand."

Her hands flew out in a curiously despairing gesture and Hercule Poirot thought how very lovely and sensitive those hands were.

He said:

"You seem to understand very well."

"Oh, yes, I understand. John used to come and talk, do you see? Not quite to me—partly I think to himself. He got things clear that way. Sometimes he was almost despairing—he couldn't see how to overcome the heightened toxicity—and then he'd get an idea for varying the treatment. I can't explain to you what it was like—it was like, yes, a battle. You can't imagine the—the fury of it and the concentration—and yes, sometimes the agony. And sometimes the sheer tiredness."

She was silent for a minute or two, her eyes dark with remembrance.

Poirot said curiously:

"You must have a certain technical knowledge yourself?"

She shook her head.

"Not really. Only enough to understand what John was talking about. I got books and read about it."

She was silent again, her face softened, her lips half parted. She was, he thought, remembering.

With a sigh, her mind came back to the present. She looked at him wistfully.

"If I could only make you see—"

"But you have, Mademoiselle."

"Really?"

"Yes. One recognizes authenticity when one hears it."

"Thank you. But it won't be easy to explain to Inspector Grange."

"Probably not. He will concentrate on the personal angle."

Henrietta said vehemently:

"And that was so unimportant—so completely unimportant."

Poirot's eyebrows rose slowly. She answered his unspoken protest:

"But it was! You see—after a while—I got between John and what he was thinking of. I affected him, as a woman. . . . He couldn't concentrate as he wanted to concentrate—because of me. He began to be afraid that he was beginning to love me—he didn't want to love anyone. He wanted it to be light, easy, just an affair like other affairs that he had had."

"And you—" Poirot was watching her closely. "You were content to have it—like that?"

Henrietta got up. She said, and once more it was her dry voice:

"No, I wasn't—content. After all, one is human."

Poirot waited a minute, then he said:

"Then why, Mademoiselle—"

"Why?" she whirled around on him. "I wanted John to be satisfied, I wanted John to have what he wanted. I wanted him to be able to go on with the thing he cared about—his work. If he didn't want to be hurt—to be vulnerable again—why—why, then, that was all right by me!"

Poirot rubbed his nose.

"Just now, Miss Savernake, you mentioned Veronica Cray. Was she also a friend of John Christow's?"

"Until last Saturday night he hadn't seen her for fifteen years."

"He knew her fifteen years ago?"

"They were engaged to be married." Henrietta came back and sat down. "I see I've got to make it all clearer. John loved Veronica desperately. Veronica was, and is, a she devil of the first water. She's the supreme egoist. Her terms were that John was to chuck everything he cared about and become Miss Veronica Cray's little tame husband. John broke up the whole thing—quite rightly. But he suffered terrifically. His one idea was to marry someone as unlike Veronica as possible. He married Gerda whom you might describe inelegantly as a first-class chump. That was all very nice and safe, but, as anyone could have told him, the day came when being married to a chump irritated him. He had various affairs—none of them important. Gerda, of course, never knew about them. But I think, myself, that for fifteen years there has been something wrong with John, something connected with Veronica. He never really got over her. And then last Saturday he met her again."

After a long pause, Poirot recited dreamily:

"He went out with her that night to see her home and returned to The Hollow at 3 a. m."

"How do you know?"

"A house maid had the toothache."

Henrietta said irrelevantly, "Lucy has far too many servants."

"But you yourself knew that, Mademoiselle."

"Yes."

"How did you know?"

Again there was an infinitesimal pause. Then Henrietta replied slowly:

"I was looking out of my window and saw him come back to the house."

"The toothache, Mademoiselle?"

She smiled at him.

"Quite another kind of ache, M. Poirot."

Hints on Etiquette

Special thought should be given to lighting when one entertains at cards. Tables should be softly illuminated by floor lamps, one at each table, if possible.

Today's Horoscope

If you're celebrating a birthday today, you are cautions, careful, a good planner, and have a fair amount of executive ability. Because of your keen foresight and good judgment, many ask your advice and profit by it. You are frank and honest in your judgment of others. Take care in the selection of your mate, and do not marry in haste. Influences today are doubtful for social interests. Gain is probably on the way. In your next year, do not let carping criticism and erratic actions spoil your family and social harmony. Exercise restraint and cultivate a sense of humor. A child born on this date will encounter domestic or social difficulties which may result in quarrels and even estrangement, nevertheless, equitable fortunes are portended.

One-Minute Test Answers

3. Jacob and Esau.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

WHAT with the piping times of peace and men and material available for road repair that fine old American pastime has returned—detouring.

The detour is the longest possible way between two points—and you can always be certain to find one when you are in a hurry.

The detour is a device that can change a glorious auto ride on a magnificent highway flanked by breathless scenery into a savage battle with the raw forces of nature.

Scientists have souped up our gas, done wonders to oil and grease, and engineers have turned out miracles of motor perfection, but no one seems to be able to do anything about the detour.

The detour, like rain, knows no caste. It plagues jaloppy and limousine, truck and bus with equal impartiality.

Detour roads are that in name only. They are usually rugged rocky or muddy masses of terrain that would defy the courage and agility of a mountain goat.

• • •

Some day every highway will have been completed and put in a permanent state of excellent repair. Of course, when that far off time is reached the auto will have become strictly a museum piece and everybody will be riding around on skyjets or rockets.

Agonizing Neuralgia of Face

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN THE whole catalog of pain, there is probably no pain more devastating than that produced by the condition known as trigeminal, or facial, neuralgia. While not serious in itself, this condition is responsible for such intolerable agony that it may have disastrous consequences. According to Dr. Paul C. Bucy, of Chicago, if it is not relieved it may even lead to suicide.

Victims of trigeminal neuralgia frequently becomes recluses, refusing all companionship and concentrating their lives on the one object of avoiding pain.

Painful Attacks

Since painful attacks are often brought on by talking, eating, or touching the face, such patients remain silent, refuse to eat and become dirty and unkempt through fear of touching the head or face.

It is possible in some cases to relieve the pain of trigeminal neuralgia temporarily by injecting alcohol into a nerve. Some cases have been relieved by the use of large doses of vitamin B-complex. However, often these methods do not suffice, and operation for cutting the nerve is necessary.

Relief from Operation

According to Dr. Bucy, no patient is too old to have this operation carried out. It is possible to obtain complete relief by such operation, even in patients of advanced age who have been weakened by some disease such as high blood pressure, diabetes or lung disorders.

The operation usually requires from 30 to 60 minutes to complete. Immediately after the operation, the patient is allowed to sit up, and occasionally is even allowed out of bed on the first day. About the fourth or sixth day, he is discharged from the hospital.

Sensation Lost

Although some sensation is lost in the face, the appearance of the face and the movement of the muscles is little changed. If any paralysis does occur, which may happen occasionally, it usually disappears within a few weeks.

In some cases, it is necessary to cut the branches of the nerve which serves the eye. This renders the first part of the eyeball, or cornea insensitive. In such instances, the eye must be protected against bits of dust and other material which may get into it and not be noticed, because of the lack of sensation.

This is done by cleansing the eye each morning and night, keeping the hands and fingers away from the eye, and wearing a transparent shield over the eye when out of doors. If the eye should become inflamed in spite of these precautions, any object in it should be removed and the eye washed out with an antiseptic solution.

CROSBY'S HAT LOST BY HOPE IN BET ON RAIN

WAYNESBURG, PA., July 31—Because it rained in Waynesburg late Tuesday might, comedian Bob Hope owes attorney Elmer Daily a hat today. And to make the matter more interesting, Hope has to produce one of the toppers that previously adorned Bing Crosby's head.

Rain on July 29 is a tradition in Waynesburg, and each year Attorney Daily, the weather recorder who inherited the task from his father, bets a hat with some prominent person that the tradition will be preserved.

It has rained on this little community on July 29 for 68 of the last 72 years.

For a long while yesterday, Daily was a worried man, but at 9:50 P. M., a light sprinkle came down—enough to save the tradition. Hope, when he made the bet, wouldn't put one of his own hats on the line. He bet Crosby's. Now all he has to do is produce it.

JEWISH LEADER APPEALS TO U. S. FOR ASSISTANCE

NEW YORK, July 31 — Dr. Stephen S. Wise appealed to Secretary of State Marshall and British Prime Minister Clement Attlee today to admit into Palestine the 4,500 Jews aboard the "Exodus 1947", now outside the French port of Marseilles.

In a telegram to Secretary Marshall, which urged the American government to do everything in its power, the president of the World Jewish Congress said:

"In the name of humanity I beseech you to use the good offices of the American government to the end that 4,500 Jewish Nazi victims now forcibly returned from Palestine shores be admitted into the Jewish homeland, the only country in the world on which they have set their hearts and which is anxious to receive them. . ."

NO-MEAT EATERS NAME MEMBER FOR PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, July 31—Dr. John Maxwell, 84-year-old naturopathic doctor from Chicago, was designated today as the vegetarian party candidate for president.

He was nominated on a platform whose chief plank advocates a diet free from the flesh of animal, fish or fowl.

The Vegetarians said they had no hope of electing their man, but expressed belief their campaign would attract the attention of the voters to a non-flesh diet.

Symon Gould, associate editor of the official publication of the vegetarian group—and incidentally, the party's candidate for vice president—nominated Maxwell, and said the organization had a potential of at least five million votes.

GERMAN WORKER RISING SLOWLY FROM WAR RUINS

Lack Of Essential Materials Slows House Program; 97% Rails Operating

BERLIN, July 31 — In 1945, most manufacturing industries in the western zones of Germany were at a standstill. By November 1946, industrial production in the American zone had reached a 44 per cent of 1936—A year of virtually full employment in Germany. With the exception of lumber, the production of all commodities is below the 1936 figure, but by 1948 prewar output is expected to be reached in a number of important industries.

In the British zone industrial production had recovered last Fall to only 38 per cent of 1936. The British zone includes heavy industries, most of which are under severe restrictions as possible war industries, while the American zone contains mainly light industries, manufacturing consumer goods.

UNFORTUNATELY, the exceptional severity of the last Winter has undone some of the progress experienced during the preceding year. Industrial production in the American zone fell in December to 39 per cent, in January to 31 per cent, and in February to 29 per cent of 1936. In March it recovered to 35 per cent, but this level still is about one-fifth below the peak of November 1946.

In spite of the low level of production, there is little unemployment. Even in February 1947, unemployment in the American zone was less than 450,000 out of a labor market of more than seven million.

Next to food, housing accommodations are the most pressing requirements of the German people.

Despite all war losses the population of the American and British zones has risen by around 20 per cent in comparison to prewar, mainly because of the inflow of Germans expelled from the area under Polish administration and from Czechoslovakia and other eastern European countries.

At the same time, urban housing suffered from terrific bomb damage during the war, especially in the industrial and commercial centers. In Bremen, for instance, 35 per cent of all homes were unusable in the Summer of 1945.

Reconstruction has been hampered by the scarcity of building materials, which in turn is due largely to the lack of coal: approximately 12.5 tons of coal are needed for producing the material necessary to build a small apartment.

IMPROVEMENT in housing conditions is particularly needed in the Ruhr district since the inflow of additional miners from the southern area of our combined zones, required to fulfill the program of output expansion, depends upon the availability of homes.

While military government plays an important role in drafting the program, its execution is entrusted to the German authorities. Military government has helped in that task by reducing to a minimum the requirements of military installations.

Since January of this year, trade between the American and British zones has been free, as the result of the economic merger of these zones, and trade between the merged zones and the rest of Germany will be increased under agreements concluded among the zonal authorities. Until and unless the overall economic unity of Germany is achieved, however, German recovery will be hampered by obstacles to the free flow of goods within the country.

TRANSPORTATION has suffered particularly badly from war damage. Military government can be proud, however, of its record in repairing railroads, inland waterways, port facilities and highways.

Railroad tracks in operation represent 97 per cent of the prewar total. Almost as many sunken vessels have been raised in the American zone as in all other zones together and the proportion of port channels cleared is higher than in any other zone. The American zone also has a larger porportion of operating motor vehicles than any other zone.

Despite this progress, transportation is even now in need of repair and maintenance is a constant problem. Allocations of materials are being made for this purpose but must be revised as required to meet new priority demands from other sides of the battered economic structure.

OSU STUDENTS PAY FEES EARLY, OFFICIAL WARNS

Vets Can Get Government Purchased Text Books After Registration

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Ohio State University's registrar has warned OSU students vacationing around the state to register for school and pay their fees early, no later than September 13, if they can arrange it.

Reason: Football tickets and —in the case of some veterans in certain curricula — textbook supplies may depend on prompt fee payments.

Registrar Ronald B. Thompson has reminded OSU's 25,000 students through Ohio that the opening football game is September 27, three days before the official beginning of classes.

Students can't get their tickets for this game with Missouri until they present a paid fee card to the athletic ticket office. Thompson recommends that registration be completed and fees paid by September 13 if students want to be fairly certain of getting their tickets, although this is not the official "final" date for fee payments.

Fees, in turn, cannot be paid until the student has completed registration procedure. Filling out of schedule cards and their approval by faculty counselors can be done now if students are enrolled in the colleges of agriculture, commerce, education and arts and sciences. Other colleges, such as engineering and the professional schools, are conducting their own registrations at various dates through August and early September. Graduate school registration will begin August 15.

Veteran students enrolled under the G. I. bill of rights may get their government purchased textbooks as soon as they have completed the registration process and those who do this early will avoid the shortages which may develop later in some areas of study, Thompson pointed out. Although the textbook supply is expected to be much better this year than last, according to University book store officials, there is still the possibility of shortages in some fields.

FARM BUREAU TO ENLARGE DISPLAY AT STATE FAIR

In keeping with the times, the Ohio Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus, will expand this year's exhibit at the 1947 Ohio State Fair Aug. 23-29, officials announced today.

A modern, artistic approach to the tent's entrance will welcome fairgoers this year and interior decorations and displays will be dressed in arresting colors. The tent has already been enlarged to 60 by 180 feet in order to accommodate a greater amount of farm machinery.

To provide ample drinking water for thirsty fairgoers in that section of the grounds, the Farm Bureau is erecting a multi-fountain with plenty of ice cold running water. Former facilities have been found inadequate, officials reported.

Various exhibits representing virtually every phase of the Farm Bureau program will be streamlined this year to add interest and cordiality to the atmosphere. Several special attractions are being planned.

SUPERFORTS ON RECORD FLIGHT TO WASHINGTON

TOKYO, July 31 — Eight B-29 Superfortresses of the 492nd atomic bomb squadron took off from Tokyo's Yokota air base today on a one-stop record-seeking flight to Washington.

The big bombers, ending a 30-day training period in Japan, soared into the skies at one-minute intervals.

They cleared the runways at 3:09 p. m. Tokyo time, and headed for Anchorage, Alaska, first and only scheduled stop on their massed flight to Washington.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's "Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes ... but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes—to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

So you can be in for a whopping surprise.

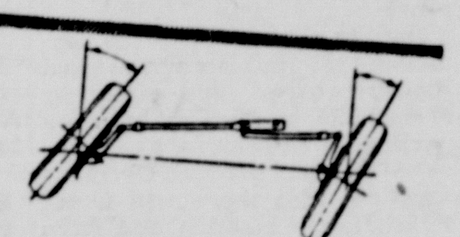
Just wheel your car into our shop and treat it to some real Buick care. The kind that comes from men who are truly fond of Buicks – who know what they can do and like to bring out all their oomph and go.

Let these men of ours test and tune your Buick with their special Buick tools. Let them replace anything that's worn with the right Buick-engineered part. Then, ZING, back comes the swing to your sweetheart.

Job for job, Buick car care costs no more than ordinary service. So, what's to lose? Come in to us whether it's for a tune-up, major or minor repair or regular lubrication. Your car rates it.



GEOMETRY? Ugh! But here it means Extra Comfort

Buicks take turns without swing or sway. This means more comfort and less fatigue every mile you travel. Credit that to the geometry of Buick front-wheel suspension.

The wheels are designed to bank slightly on curves—the inside wheel turns a degree or two sharper than the outside one. And they're hung at an angle that lets them give slightly to cushion road shocks.

So good Buick front-wheel service is a job for men who know Buick front-wheel action — who have Buick-approved checking equipment—who have at hand any needed Buick-engineered parts.

Another example of why Buick care keeps Buicks best. Whether it's for wheel alignment or any other attention, bring your car to us.

GOP REPORTED SPLIT OVER NEW INCOME TAX CUT

Knutson Refusing To Bring Up His Proposal For Slashes Again

WASHINGTON, July 31 — House Republican leaders were reported split today over whether to make a third try at reducing individual income taxes or wait until after the 1948 presidential election.

House Majority Leader Halleck (R) Ind. is pressing for passage once again when congress reconvenes, whether in special session this Fall or Jan. 6 in regular session.

Halleck wanted Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., who sponsored the two bills President Truman vetoed, to reintroduce his measure before congress adjourned last Sunday, but Knutson refused. It was reported that Knutson was supported in his stand by Speaker Martin (R) Mass.

KNUTSON DECLARED that as far as he was concerned, the legislation is dead until after the '48 elections. Martin asserted that tax reductions apparently will have to wait "until the country has a Republican president."

The two bills were identical except for the effective date. Both would have slashed individual income taxes four billion dollars a year, from 10-½ to 30 percent. One would have become effective July 1 of this year, the second next Jan. 1.

While Knutson insisted he would not reintroduce his bill at the next session, he left the way open, however, for such action. He told a reporter that he will abide by the decision of the house Republican steering committee. Under the constitution, tax bills must originate in the house.

The President vetoed the tax bills because, he stated, they would mean "the wrong kind of tax reduction at the wrong time." He urged that any surplus in the treasury be used to reduce the national debt.

NECRO TAKING HEAVY TOLL OF OHIO PORKERS

Farmers were warned today that "Necro", short for necrotic enteritis, a vitamin deficiency, may cause more losses than all other swine diseases combined.

A. J. Gross, animal health specialist of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus, said that death losses from Necro are probably exceeded only by losses from cholera. "In fact," he said, "the overall loss from necro may be greater than from cholera since necro is extremely wide-spread and pigs that survive may be stunted and unthrifty."

He said that only until recently has any discovery been made which has been effective as a treatment, a sulfa. In two forms, the drugs, Sulfa-guanidine powder and Kemvite (brand of Sulfa-guanidine and Niacin), have shown upwards of 90 per cent recoveries under actual field conditions, he said.

When flower plants revert to earlier types and do not produce the type of blossoms expected of the variety, seed growers call them "rogues".

DOCK MEN WALK OFF JOB ON SHIP HAULING NITRATE

NEW YORK, July 31—A longshoremen's strike left the SS Molda stranded at a Brooklyn pier today with 2,643 tons of ammonium nitrate aboard the same type of fertilizer which caused the Texas City, Tex., and Brest, France, disasters.

The longshoremen walked off the 7,850-ton vessel and refused to work until they were paid double "ammunition time." This rate calls for $3.30 an hour ,instead of the usual $1.65. The Cosmopolitan Shipping Company refused to pay the double time.

The Cosmopolitan firm also owned the Ocean Liberty, which blew up at Brest and caused a loss of at least 19 lives in the French city. The Molda is docked at the same pier which the Ocean Liberty used before leaving on her ill-fated trip overseas.

The ammonium nitrate was taken aboard the Molda several days ago at Norfolk, Va., only general cargo was to be added in New York before the ship was scheduled to leave for France next Monday.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA
By KENNETH L. DIXON
Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 31—At the department store door, the big blond young man paused for a moment before pushing out into the crowd. It was not pleasant to contemplate what lay ahead, but he needed a moment to think—to memorize every move.

From now on, the slightest mistake might be fatal.

Having to ask the boss to let him quit early had been hard. After all, he'd only worked a few days on his first postwar job. But that was the only way he could get away with it. If he had waited until quitting time, some of the boys might have gotten wise, and he couldn't risk interference at this stage of the game.

OUT ON THE sidewalk, he stopped again, preoccupied with his plan. A girl shopper who bumped into him started to snap at him, but caught his "pardon me" and his smile—and smiled back. You couldn't blame her. Tall, broad-shouldered and handsome, he looked like the movie version of the star halfback.

As a matter of fact, he had been one. And being bounced along by the crowd brought back memories of those days. Wryly, he recalled that rough afternoon in the Rose Bowl, and realized it hadn't been half as tough as what he had to do today.

That snapped him out of his reverie. Slowly, he moved to the corner and stood there a moment, one toe of his sports shoe nervously tapping the curbing. He turned to two men who were talking behind him.

"Pardon me, sir," he asked, "but do you have the time?"

He smiled his thanks as one of them answered—pleased because his timing was perfect. Now, if only nothing happened.

GETTING ON the street car, he was nervous a moment for fear someone he knew might notice him. From here on out, everything depended on his not being recognized. Otherwise, he'd have to abandon his whole plan.

Sitting there, clenching and unclenching those big hands, he had a panicky moment of almost wishing someone would recognize him, and stop him before anything could happen. But then he got hold of himself. After all, he'd done tough things before. There was that day during the Bulge, for instance, when the eighty-eight had smeared his tank—and then the next shell had spattered him because he stuck around to pull a wounded gunner out of the escape hatch—And there was the time that—

The motorman called his corner. He got off and stood there until the sounds of the street car had died away in the distance, and then crossed to the sidewalk which led down a quiet residential zone.

Eight blocks to go, he thought, eight blocks o go. Now came the part he had dreaded for so long. And this was different than what he'd done in the Rose Bowl or the Bulge, because then he hadn't had time to think. But he'd thought too much about these last eight blocks, and he had come to wonder if he would have the courage to go through with it.

He still didn't know, but meanwhile he kept moving, scuffing his shoes along the sidewalk's edge, whistling idly like an afternoon stroller when it was time to slow down, pretending to consult directions in a notebook when he paused at a street corner and listened carefully.

So far so good, he thought grimly. All according to plan.

• • •

HALF A BLOCK away, she saw him coming. But frightened understanding kept her frozen where she stood until he finally entered the front door quietly and closed it behind him. Then she said only:

"You're home early, Charlie."

And if there were tears in her eyes, her husband couldn't see them. For Charles Boswell, who had just come home from work alone for the first time since the war—who had forced himself to find the way unaided through his new and fearful world of darkness—had been blinded as he fought to save a buddy back there on the western front.

THAT'S THE story they told me in Birmingham more than a year ago, after I'd met and talked to the soft-spoken young giant who for three years was the ground-gaining pride of the Alabama Crimson Tide.

And I tell it now because once again, after an absence of nearly a decade, Charlie Boswell's picture is being plastered across the sports pages of the nation's newspapers. He has just won the United States blind golfers' championship at Duluth, Minnesota—shooting better golf out of the shadows than you and I probably will ever shoot.

The boy with the unbreakable heart is back.

Some Australian lizards have traces of a third eye which was functional in lizards of past geological ages.

BE SURE
of Fuel Oil for Next Winter

Our best advice: Don't install any oil burning equipment unless you have positive assurance of your full winter's oil requirements in advance. Get a written contract.

Why?

Next winter's Ohio demand for fuel oil for home heating, industrial uses, farms, and railroads will be up several hundred per cent over the last prewar year, 1941. For instance, even last winter the use of oil heat was more than double what it was in 1941.

There is no trouble today with crude oil. Refineries are producing above previous levels and can go higher. The pinch is in transportation of crude petroleum and petroleum products, especially in the middle western and north central states. Pipe lines, barges, tankers and tank cars are transporting petroleum at capacity levels. Steel and equipment shortages today are holding back increases in transportation capacity.

Current circumstances have already caused Sohio and other companies to limit their supplies of gasoline. Now, the safety and convenience of all concerned requires temporarily that the use of fuel oils be kept within bounds.

What Sohio is Doing

We are doing everything possible to assure our contracted home heating customers of their required Sohio-Heat for next winter.

1. Already, as a safeguard for these customers, we have ceased taking on new home oil heating commitments and have urged our independent distributors to do likewise.
2. Sohio has offered contracts to all previous regular customers for their next winter's requirements and is urging immediate acceptance of these contracts.
3. During this summer we are filling every customer's home storage tank to the brim.
4. Sohio has offered low cost arrangements to customers for increasing their home storage.
5. We have taken pains to fully inform dealers in oil burning equipment.
6. Considerable new Sohio fuel oil storage is being built.

ALLEN SPENCER SET NEW WORLD TROTTING MARK

WESTBURY, N. Y., July 31—Allen Spencer, aged bay gelding from the East Aurora, N. Y., stable of John Beck, held a new world's record for trotting for 1-½ miles on a half mile track today.

Allen Spencer won the invitational North Shore trot in 3:11.1 at the Roosevelt raceway last night. The winner was driven by Milt Van Auken. The former mark of 3:14 was made by Kate Volo, bay mare by Volomite, in 1945.

Goose Bay, black colt by Volomite, won the 38th annual renewal of the matron stake No. 38 for three year old pacers. Driven by Mike Mahoney and owned by Saunders Mills, Toledo, O., Goose Bay finished second to Shamrock Joe in the first heat in 2:04.3 for the mile.

Coming from behind in the second and third heats he won going away in 2:05.3 and 2:05.4 respectively. Shamrock Joe, driven by Hyland, took place money in the two final heats. Forbes Chief, who finished third in the first two dashes, was scratched in the final heat because of lameness.

CHILD DEATH RATE HIGHER IN GREECE THAN BIRTHS

CHICAGO, July 31—Dr. John Caminopetros, director of the Pasteur Institute of Athens, Greece, said today in an article released in Chicago that children in Greece are dying faster than they are born.

He cited figures in the current Hygeia published by the American Medical Association, indicating that every fifth death is a child under five.

Dr. Caminopetros blamed the great number of child deaths to inadequate medical attention due to a shortage of hospital beds, doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Now it is quite easy for people, especially commentators, to stand off and say what Washington, the Republicans, the Democrats, or government should do about this or that, to say, for instance: "if I had anything to do with it, I would do it this way." They do not understand what government is like, particularly free democratic government. Free government does not stop the winds. It lets them blow. It allows organized pressure groups to set up wind machines and try to get gales started. During this session they all blew. But they did not blow the Republicans away from what they believed in, and most important, they could not even nullify the trend of Republican political faith, even though the Republicans had to get two-thirds of congress to move.

The details are worth another story, perhaps many of them but for fear that you might lose a basic conclusion in a haystack of details, I would report first: the Republicans did rather well under the circumstances.

BIRTHDAY

On the 40th anniversary of the American Air Forces, Ted Malone will tell the story of Louis Zamperini, of Hollywood, former AAF Captain, and member of the 1936 U. S. Olympic team, wounded, but preparing for future Olympics, Friday, at 10:45 a. m., EST over ABC.

MYSTERY

"A Piece of String," the famous Guy de Maupassant story, will be dramatized on "Mystery in the Air," starring Peter Lorre, on Thursday, at 9 p. m. This replaces "Evening Primrose," originally scheduled for broadcast on this date. It's the story of a miser who innocently picks up a piece of string, but whose guilty manner causes him to be accused of a theft which he did not commit. The stigma of the crime, however, follows him to his grave.

MUSICAL TRIBUTE

Nadine Conner will blend her lyric soprano voice with the baritone of Nelson Eddy and the piano artistry of Leonard Pennario in a medley of tunes from the "Song Of Norway" on Thursday, at 8 p. m. EST over NBC. The musical tribute to Norwegian composer Edward Grieg will conclude a half-hour of music and song. Musical director is Robert Armbruster, who leads his orchestra in accompanying the three headliners. The rousing strains of Vincent Youmans' "Rise and Shine" as sung by Nelson Eddy will provide a spirited opening to the evening. The traditional "Danny Boy" has been scheduled as the singer's second solo number. Next will be Miss Conner's rendition of Ernesto Lecuona's stirring "Siboney," followed by a Nelson Eddy interpretation of "Chicken Dinner." Leonard Pennario will then take the spotlight to play Claude Debussy's "Clair De Lune." Mr. Eddy's fourth and final choice is "The blind Ploughman" by Clarke. Pardonably proud of her California pioneer ancestry, Nadine Conner highly prizes a cameo brooch of a woman's head which was handed down from her great-grandmother, Mary White, the first white child to sail around Cape Horn in a fo'master in 1843. After this ancestress grew up, she married and settled in the Golden State. Her daughter received the cameo brooch and it was subsequently passed on to Nadine's mother and then to her. Today the singer firmly believes that the little pin brings her luck and wouldn't dream of making any kind of professional appearance—radio, concert or opera—without it.

CAKE DEMONSTRATION

Vera Holly, popular radio singer and Peach Queen of 1947, will be guest of the "Betty Crocker Magazine of the Air," Friday, at 10:25 a. m. Miss Holly will be the cooking student as Betty Crocker demonstrates her method of preparing peach shortcake. Sponge cake will be the feature of the cooking demonstration. Win Elliot will lead a discussion of the question, "Is it true that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach?" Betty Crocker will describe a novel and inexpensive table decoration and conduct her unusual "All you have to do" department.

Bobby Ellis, 12-year-old new "Alexander Bumstead" of the Sunday CBS "Blondie" show, turned down a contract to appear in Paula Stone's forthcoming Broadway play, "Dan Cupid" in order to become the radio son of the perenially popular "Blondie" and "Dagwood Bumstead" in a deal that guarantees him five appearances in each 13-week cycle. He has been a radio actor for nearly eight years, having been signed to his first contract as the boy "Dallas Tremaine" in the Chicago-originated serial drama, "Arnold Grimm's Daughter." Bobby was then so tiny that he read his lines atop a tall box that raised his mouth to mike level!

To reinforce a weak spot in a rug, tack canvas on the underside. Darn through the canvas with a coarse needle and heavy, matching button thread, and keep the stitches loose, so mended spot does not pucker.

BUILDING COSTS NOT LIKELY TO DROP FURTHER

Prospective Home Builders Advised By Experts Prices To Stay Up

Persons who are waiting to build or buy homes in the belief that prices will go lower are likely to be disappointed, it was declared today by the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information, following a nation-wide survey of all cost and price factors.

Today's building dollar is worth only 56 cents in relation to the 1941 dollar when spent for homes, the Bureau said.

THIS CONCLUSION was based on findings of Myron L. Matthews, vice president of Dow Service, who stated that the home which sold for $6,000 just before the war now must sell for $10,780 because of a 78 per cent rise in costs in the past six years.

This rise has been due largely to wage increases in the building trades and in wages paid to workers who produce building material," the economist said. "Wages are not likely to go down, it is believed, and therefore building costs will remain close to present levels for some time.

"Material prices have become fairly well stabilized within the past few weeks and no further appreciable price declines are expected, with the possible exception of lumber. The lower grades have dropped sharply in the past six or eight weeks and a moderate decline is expected in higher grades before long. This will not affect the over-all price of homes to any great extent, however, builders say."

IN AN effort to produce the best possible house at the lowest possible price, most builders today claim they are taking 10 per cent less profit than before the war. At the same time, the majority of them are putting many more refinements into homes now.

These so-called "extras", which the purchaser now demands and gets as standard, include fireplaces, complete laundry equipment including automatic washers, complete thermal insulation with mineral wool, colored tile bathrooms, more and larger windows and the most modern ideas in heating and plumbing.

GREEKS, REBELS SAID STAGING 'FIERCE BATTLE'

ATHENS, July 31 — Greek army troops and leftist guerrillas were reported locked in "fierce battle" today within the outskirts of Alexandroupolis near the Turkish frontier.

Dispatches from the area said that the guerrillas attacked from the Salonika area, fighting their way into the Aegean port in western Thrace and engaging elements of the Greek garrison.

Columns of smoke rising from the eastern outskirts raised fears that the guerrillas may have set fire to the railway station with mortar fire.

Other guerrillas simultaneously attacked the border towns of Soufflion, Farrai and Sikaralys.
